This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

+ Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.

+ Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.

+ Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.

+ Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

About Google Book Search

Google's mission is to organize the world's information and to make it universally accessible and useful. Google Book Search helps readers discover the world's books while helping authors and publishers reach new audiences. Printed by Order of the General Assembly

HARTFORD
1906

NOTE.

Commencing with the documents for the year 1900, a Document Number has been assigned to each State departmental report.

This number is determined by the chronological order of the first printed independent issue of such report and will in future be retained by it, thus showing the relative chronological place it occupies in the printed reports of the State.

A list of these reports, with the date of first printed issue and the document number of each, appears on the following page.

LIBRARY NOTE.

In order that each department report of the State of Connecticut for a series of years may be quickly located in the bound volumes of Public Documents, the Comptroller has also given each report a Binding Number by which its position in the bound volumes is permanently established, thus enabling each report to be found in the same position and volume from year to year.

That these several reports may be placed in the libraries of our several exchanges as soon as convenient after publication, he has provided that the State Librarian shall be supplied with two hundred sets bound in volumes of convenient size, each volume to be bound and labeled in harmony with the regular set and sent out as soon as possible after the printing of the reports belonging therein. This arrangement began with the reports for 1902.

THE FIFTIETH ANNUAL REPORT

OF THE

Executive Committee of the Hartford Hospital.

To the Directors of the Hartford Hospital:

GENTLEMEN:— The Executive Committee herewith presents its Fiftieth Annual Report of the Hartford Hospital for the fiscal year terminating September 30, 1905.

Under this cover are included the Treasurer's report in full, the report of the Superintendent to the Executive Committee, to which special attention is called, the report of the Medical and Surgical Staffs, of the Medical and Surgical work of the Hospital during the year, as well as the Reports of the Old People's Home and the Hartford Hospital Training School for Nurses.

As is manifest in the Superintendent's report, there has been a falling off from last year in the daily average of patients. For the Hospital year ending Sept. 30, 1904, the daily average was 160. For the year ending Sept. 30, 1905, the daily average has been 152. This loss is mainly due to the diminution of town patients who have been cared for in the new city hospital connected with the Alms House.

FINANCES.

The cost of internal operation of the Hartford Hospital for the year terminating Sept. 30, 1904, inclusive of unpaid bills, was $122,915.61. The deduction of $8,551.65, representing bills paid in fiscal year 1904 incurred in fiscal year 1903, leaves $114,363.96, the actual cost for fiscal year terminating Sept. 30, 1904. The total gross expenditures for internal operation of the Hartford Hospital for fiscal year terminating Sept. 30, 1905, amounted to $117,509.25.

Deducting cost of supplies to Old People's Home, . . .	$9,140.18
And repairs and supplies for Tubercular Hospital, . . .	1,952.84	$11,093.02
		$106,416.23
The addition of bills payable, .		5,033.95
Makes total cost for year, .		$111,450.18

Showing a reduction in total cost over previous year of $11,465.43. The subtraction of amount of bills incurred in 1904, and paid in 1905, $4,058.80, makes actual cost for fiscal year $107,391.38, showing a reduction in actual cost for year 1905 of $6,972.58.

RECEIPTS.

As might naturally be expected, inasmuch as we have cared for a daily average of eight patients less during the past year than the year previous, the receipts from patients have somewhat decreased. For the year terminating Sept. 30, 1904, our receipts amounted to $74,331.62. For the year terminating Sept. 30, 1905, our receipts amounted to $73,614.45, showing a decrease of $717.17 for the past over previous year.

The receipts from other sources as reported in Treasurer's account, amount to $28,094.56, making a sum total of $101,709.01. If we add to this amount $1,952.84, the sum due the Hartford Hospital by the Tubercular Hospital for repairs and supplies and properly chargeable to the Tubercular Hospital fund, the amount is $103,661.85, which deducted from $111,450.18, the total cost for the year, leaves $7,788.33, the total deficiency for the year. Deducting from this sum $4,058.80, representing the aggregate amount of bills paid in 1905 incurred in fiscal year 1904, we discover as actual deficit for current year terminating Sept. 30, 1905, $3,729.53.

In contrast with the report of 1904, this may seem an unfavorable showing. Referring to that report we find that the actual cost of operation for the fiscal year terminating Sept. 30, 1904, amounted to $114,363.96; the receipts to $115,994.90, showing an excess of receipts over expenditures of $1,630.94. The Hospital was not only solvent, but had actually made $1,630.94. The explanation is simple. It will be remembered that in 1904, the Old People's Home paid to the Hartford Hospital in final adjustment of debt accumulating during a period of six years, $13,873.26. This is included in the receipts for the Hospital for 1904. Inasmuch as the intercurrent indebtedness between these two institutions is now settled monthly, there are no arrears of indebtedness available from this source this year. The deduction of this sum from total receipts, $115,994.90, leaves the receipts from fixed sources $102,121.64, which deducted from $103,661.85, leaves $1,540.21, increase of receipts this year over 1904. Had it not been for the timely aid in the payment of this debt, the deficit would have been $12,242.32 in 1904. The deduction from this sum of $3,729.53, the deficit for 1905, leaves a difference of $8,512.79 in favor of 1905 over 1904, a saving effected entirely in reduction of cost of operation.

Owing to the liberality of our citizens, there are at present in the hands of our Treasurer, the following sums for the reduction of our deficit:

Hospital Sunday subscriptions,		$335.43
Donations from friends,		2,180.00
The Hunter-Bradford subscription Entertainment,		5,037.87
		$7,553.30
The total deficiency for the year is	$7,788.33
Subtraction of	7,553.30
Actual deficiency for the year,		$235.03

This being the report of the Executive Committee, it is, of course, to be understood that it deals only with the cost of internal operation and does not include expenses of Treasurer's office. These, inclusive of insurance, are to be regarded as fixed charges upon the funds and buildings of the corporation and would have to be maintained should the Hospital for any reason close its doors and cease to fulfil its mission of mercy. They are not, therefore, it seems to us, to be properly included in the operating expenses.

The Treasurer's report summarized, inclusive of insurance, shows the expenses for the year to have been $2,581.32, which added to $235.03, the deficiency in internal operation, makes a total deficiency for the year, inclusive of unpaid bills, $2,816.35.

In our report for 1904 we made the forecast that the Hospital could be run for the coming year at an expenditure of $112,000, inclusive of bills outstanding at the end of the year. The actual cost for the fiscal year, $107,391.38, would indicate that we had bettered our prediction. Unfortunately, however, this is not the fact. Last year we had coal on hand and paid for, to last us until March, which inventoried $6,072.30. This year we are buying coal by the month, delivered upon our order and paying for it monthly according to rate of consumption, at a contract price made in the spring. This saves interest on our money and a small percentage in deterioration of the coal stored in the open. The coal on hand September 30, 1905, therefore, inventoried only $211.75, a difference of $5,860.55, which, added to the cost for the year, would make a sum total of $113,251.93. The cost of repairs, though necessary, exceeded our estimate, and permanent improvements, a piazza added to Ward 10, cost $300, and the addition of scales at a cost of $367.50, were also not in contemplation. The final result, therefore, very closely approximates our prediction.

THE TUBERCULAR HOSPITAL.

In accordance with the direction of the Managing Board of Directors, the Tubercular Hospital and Wards 3 and 4 of the general Hospital, have been fully prepared and equipped for the reception of Tubercular patients at an expense of $3,988.19, $1,952.84 of which appears in the account already rendered, as advanced by the Hartford Hospital. Since October 1st the expenses incurred have been chargeable directly to the Tubercular Hospital. It is supposed by your Executive Committee that the Tubercular Hospital and Wards 3 and 4 of the main Hospital, having a separate State appropriation and fund for maintenance, shall be run so far as relates to its finances (expenses and receipts) as a separate institution, chargeable to the special fund provided. We calculate the cost of the Tubercular Hospital proper will approximate $15,000 a year, and that the receipts from this source and from Wards 3 and 4 will meet the expenses of Wards 3 and 4 in the main Hospital.

HARTFORD HOSPITAL—TUBERCULAR ANNEX.—South Front.

It is clearly obvious from the report rendered that the resources of the Hartford Hospital cannot meet the outlay for the support of the Tubercular Hospital, and that we are, therefore, dependent upon the State appropriation and the good will of the public to maintain this beneficent institution.

THE WORKING MAN'S FUND.

We approach this subject with delicacy, inasmuch as the working men's organization and establishment of their fund is entirely independent and outside of the Hospital corporation, and, therefore, properly is not subject to our report. We cannot let this opportunity pass, however, without assuming the privilege of expressing our cordial appreciation of their zealous aid and co-operation in giving relief to the unfortunates striken with the dread Tuberculosis, and in affording protection to the community. We herewith give them public assurance moreover, that their fund in the hands of our Treasurer, will be sacredly guarded, and utilized only for its legitimate purposes under the direction of their representative committee, and that full accounting of its use will duly be made to them.

THE FARM.

This part of the Hospital has always been looked upon as a losing investment though no particular pains have ever been taken to prove whether it was operated with a loss or a profit. Very little effort has been made to keep it in repair and no permanent improvements have been made for a number of years. Believing that by putting it into a condition where it could compete with a modern farm and that by operating it as a separate plant and on a strictly business basis it could be made to show a profit, your committee has this year built a milk room and supplied it with modern appliances and have built two silos and made other minor improvements at a total cost of $1,402.85, which amount has been charged to the general permanent improvement account of the Hospital.

We then instructed the farmer to keep strict account of expenditures and receipts and a separate account with the Hartford Hospital, the Old People's Home, and the Tuberculosis Hospital, and to charge each plant market prices for everything furnished it by the farm and for all labor performed by him.

Operating for a short period under a part of this system the Farm showed on October 1, 1905, a profit for the fiscal year of $465.78.

RECOMMENDATIONS.

While we concur in the recommendations of our Superintendent made to us in his report as being material needs to the general efficiency of the Hospital, we are not prepared to urge them upon your Board in their entirety in the present financial condition of the Hospital. We will recommend, however, the addition of an elevator and of generous piazzas at the southern ends of Wards 3 and 4. The latter we regard as of almost vital need in the treatment of Tubercular patients requiring active Hospital treatment, and, therefore, for the time required to build them up, not proper inmates of the Tubercular Hospital at Cedar Mountain.

In conclusion we acknowledge with pride and in a spirit of gratitude the noble gratuitous services of our Medical and Surgical Staffs. A simple study of their detailed report impresses us of the deep obligation resting upon the Hospital and its public for their faithful and laborious work. We are deeply appreciative also of the spirit of zeal and of co-operation now manifest throughout our Institution from the Superintendent down throughout our long list of employees. The burden is easy and the work is light, when the spirit that inspires makes zealous agents of the mind and of the hands to do their uttermost to give visible and tangible realization of one great enobling purpose.

Respectfully,
WILLIAM D. MORGAN, M.D.,
LOUIS R. CHENEY,
PHINEAS H. INGALLS, M.D.

AUDITORS' CERTIFICATE

Hartford, Conn., Dec. 18, 1905.

This is to certify that I have audited the accounts of Mr. Ward W. Jacobs as Treasurer of the Hartford Hospital and the Old People's Home Department for the year beginning October 1, 1904, and ending September 30, 1905.

I found vouchers for all expenditures and securities for all funds invested during the year as per the cash books.

I verified the footings of the cash books and traced balances from the ledgers to the balance sheets, and also verified the footings of the abstracts of receipts and expenditures and the statements of Assets and Liabilities.

I also examined the securities called for by the statement of Assets and Liabilities and found them all correct.

Respectfully submitted,
CHAS. E. WILSON.

As Auditors of the Treasurer's accounts of the Hartford Hospital, we employed Charles E. Wilson of Hartford, to make a thorough examination of the books and accounts of the Treasurer in both the Hospital and the Old People's Home Department for the year ending September 30, 1905, his certificate being a part of this report, and we have personally examined the securities in the invested funds, as shown by the report of the Treasurer, and find the same as reported.

HARTFORD HOSPITAL—TUBERCULAR ANNEX—Female Solarium.

SUPERINTENDENT'S REPORT.

To the Executive Committee:

GENTLEMEN:—The Fiftieth Annual Report of the Hartford Hospital, containing a statement of the receipts and expenditures, with other customary details, is herewith submitted.

MOVEMENT OF POPULATION.

The number of patients in the Hospital September 30, 1904, was 155 — 80 males and 75 females. During the year, 1,887 patients have been admitted, making an aggregate of 2,042 under treatment — 1,105 males and 937 females. One hundred and sixty-three patients remain at the end of the year — 86 males and 77 females.

The greatest number present on any one day was 190; the least number was 110. The daily average was 152. There have been 1,169 Americans, 716 of foreign birth, while 2 were of unknown nativity. Patients have been received from 78 different towns in the state.

The number of weeks occupied was 7,925 5/7, and the average duration of residence was 3.88 weeks. Twelve state beneficiaries occupied 174 weeks, and 5 U. S. marine patients 46 4/7 weeks.

Eighty-five patients, occupying 153 5/7 weeks, have been supported by charity, viz: Keney Fund; and 24 patients, occupying 182 5/7 weeks, on the various Hospital Free Beds. The state appropriation of $10,000 has partially supported 464 patients at the rate of $4.61 per week.

The average cost per day for each patient, including repairs, etc., was 1.93 4/5; exclusive of repairs was 1.84 1/2.

RESULTS OF TREATMENT.

For those who lack time to study the tables of medical and surgical statistics a concise summary of the valuable results of the year's work is desirable.

During the year 1,204 persons have recovered, 333 have improved, 126 have not improved, and 216 have died. The percentage of recoveries and improvement was 75.3. The percentage of deaths to the total number under treatment was 10.57, or 0.81 more than last year.

Twenty-five deaths were due to severe accidents, occurring within a few hours after admission, while 78 cases were in a hopeless condition and lived but a few days. Twenty deaths were due to pulmonary tuberculosis. This makes a total of 123 hopeless cases, or 6.04% of the total number under treatment.

In the medical wards there were admitted 872 medical cases, including 116 cases of diphtheria, 12 cases of scarlet fever, 69 cases of typhoid, 20 cases of measles, and 28 cases of erysipelas. The total number of cases of infectious diseases was 318, of which number 229 recovered, 12 improved, 1 did not improve, 40 died, and 36 still remain under treatment. 110 cases of nervous diseases were under treatment.

In the surgical wards there were 1,015 patients under treatment and 628 operations were performed.

In the gynecological wards there were 283 patients under treatment, and 243 operations were performed.

The total operations included 194 laparotomies, 103 appendectomies, 1 Cæsarian section, 3 gastro-enterostomies, and 12 craniotomies.

During the year 123 cases of eye, ear, nose, and throat diseases were treated, and 68 operations were performed.

In the maternity department there were 90 cases of pregnancy, 12 of which resulted in miscarriages.

In the pathological and bacteriological department an immense amount of very valuable work has been performed. This work is not only essential to diagnosis, prognosis, and treatment, but also enables us to make a complete history of each case. All histories are now stored in special cabinets, and afford important material for analysis and reports.

MEDICAL AND SURGICAL STAFFS.

In anticipation of the re-opening of the Tubercular Hospital it was necessary to increase our Visiting Staff, and Drs. Walter R. Steiner, Robert S. Starr, and Henry F. Stoll were duly appointed. On the House Staff Drs. Arthur C. Heublein, Alfred H. Clark, and Harold S. Arnold have completed their terms of service, and Drs. Robert Lee Rowley, Chester Thompson Cobb, and James Cornelius Wilson have been promoted accordingly.

At the close of the year the House Staff is constituted as follows: —

Robert Lee Rowley, House Physician.

Chester Thompson Cobb, House Surgeon.

James Cornelius Wilson, House Gynecologist.

Charles Thomas Beach, Assistant House Surgeon.

Thomas Melville Proctor, First Assistant House Physician.

Thomas Norval Hepburn, Second Assistant House Physician.

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT.

Miss Charlotte A. Brown remained as Superintendent of Nurses until the close of the year, when she resigned, and was succeeded by Miss Lauder Sutherland. Miss Lucile Mast resigned the office of Night Superintendent of Nurses in August, and was succeeded by Miss Lizzie L. Goeppinger.

Miss Emma F. Kinney, Miss Margaret B. Allan, Miss Ida F. Butler, Miss Lucinda M. Boughton, Miss Mary Coutts are Head Nurses.

The adoption of a new system of accounts and the resultant increase of work necessitated the employment of an expert bookkeeper and Mr. William Young Shaw was appointed, and has been efficient and zealous. There have been no other changes in this department.

IMPROVEMENTS.

A large veranda has been added to Ward 10, on a level with the ward floor, thus enabling us to convey the old and feeble patients to enjoy the outdoor air and sunshine without difficulty or discomfort. A new office has been constructed for the use of the Steward. A Fairbanks' platform scale has been installed near the coal bunker. A new telephone system has been introduced. The entire boiler system has been equipped with new grates suitable for pea coal, which will effect quite a saving in the consumption of fuel. Two large wards, the entire cottage for contagious diseases, the main and diet kitchens, bakery, and many other places have been painted. The gutters and conductors on all the buildings have been renewed or repaired.

Our lawn has been decidedly improved by a re-arrangement of the shrubs and plants which had heretofore been distributed in an unsystematic manner. This was done after a plan drawn by Mr. Theodore Wirth, Superintendent of City Parks, who gave his valuable services gratuitously. A topographical map of the grounds and buildings has been made, which will enable us to make any further additions or adornments in a systematic and artistic manner.

The Tubercular Hospital was placed in thorough repair inside and out in readiness for occupancy October 2, 1905.

At Wildwood Farm many improvements have been made, including the erection of two silos; the addition of a new milk room equipped with all the modern improvements; enlarged and better quarters for our cows and hens, and repainting all the barns.

The Board of Health has arranged to furnish its ambulance for the transfer of all cases of contagious diseases to the Hospital. When we are notified of a case the interne in charge of the Contagious department accompanies the ambulance to the residence of the patient and escorts him to the Hospital. For patients able to pay, a small fee (seventy-five cents) is charged.

TUBERCULAR HOSPITAL.

The state having made an appropriation for this purpose, arrangements have been made to re-open the Tubercular Hospital on October 2, 1905. All classes of cases are to be received. All applicants must be entered at the main Hospital, No. 20 South Hudson St., for thorough examination and classification. Here two wards have been equipped exclusively for cases of tuberculosis. From these wards, as soon as the examination is completed, suitable cases will be transferred to the Annex. At the latter place we have accommodations for forty patients on the ward, and for eight in private rooms. At the main Hospital we have accommodation for forty-two on the wards, and for two in private rooms.

NEEDS.

A modern Hospital always needs something — in fact, many things.

An elevator is a vital necessity.

Now that we are to receive cases of tuberculosis, spacious verandas are needed on Wards 3 and 4 to enable patients to spend days and nights out of doors. Similar verandas should be added to Wards 1 and 2 for the benefit of our male medical and surgical services. Fresh air and sunlight are most potent aids to treatment.

Our laundry lacks adequate room for the work imposed upon it. If an extension could be built over the coal bunker, it would afford ample space for the laundry, while a second story would provide further rooms for employees, of which we are in need.

A small receiving ward for each sex, with a separate adjoining entrance exclusively for the admission of patients is greatly desired. At present all patients are brought in at the front door, and the effect is rather depressing, to say nothing of the publicity which cannot but be disagreeable to most.

A new ward for patients suffering from psychoses, and especially from delirium tremens, is urgently needed. These cases are disturbing elements, and it is impossible at present to isolate them sufficiently to prevent annoyance by their delirious outcries. Recently we had six cases at once, and were hard pressed for accommodations.

The cottage for contagious diseases is available for cases of diphtheria, scarlet fever, measles, erysipelas, and cerebro-spinal meningitis. There are only seven rooms, three of which accommodate only two beds each. It is evident that if we had at the same time applications for all the above varieties of contagious diseases, and from both sexes, our accommodations would be inadequate. As it is we are often put to great inconvenience to properly classify and locate the cases. Hence the desirability, as soon as our finances will permit, of adding another story to the cottage, which would probably give us adequate room.

Attention has been called in previous reports to the need of an additional ward for males, which could be provided by an additional story to Ward 5.

If we could afford to reconstruct our basement it would be possible to arrange a wide corridor extending throughout three sides of the building, on the same level. This would greatly facilitate the distribution of food, laundry, supplies, etc., more especially if we had an elevator in addition.

In all modern hospitals the statistical and clerical work is large, necessitating copious and accurate records, which need to be preserved and accessible. The merely routine work here is very extensive. Hence the eventual necessity for enlargement of our purely administrative departments, to allow ample room for performance of work and for storage of records and books.

These, and many other needs not mentioned, remind us of the greatest need of all — a large endowment.

INVENTORY.

Our inventory shows the following supplies in store, September 30, 1905:

Bedding, linen, etc.,	$2,231.16
Canned goods,	299.72
Coal,	211.75
Drugs, spirits, etc.,	1,808.58
Farm produce,	1,482.00
Groceries,	286.90
Ice,	50.00
Meats, fish and fowl,	152.74
Supplies, kitchen and ward,	497.97
Supplies, medical and surgical,	730.00
Supplies, printed matter and stationery,	502.42

HARTFORD HOSPITAL—TUBERCULAR ANNEX.
Recreation Grove, mostly Pines, protecting building from northwest winds.

Supplies, paints, lumber, plumbing, material, etc.,	285.00
Supplies, laboratory, stains, culture media and chemicals,	49.85
	$8,588.09

We now buy our coal monthly, which accounts for the difference in valuation from last year, when we had a very large supply on hand. It will also be seen that we have consumed the excessively large supply of canned goods on hand September 30, 1904. These two items practically account for the decrease ($5,615.81) in valuation of supplies in store over last year.

RECEIPTS.

The following table shows in detail all moneys received at the Hartford Hospital from October 1, 1904, to September 30, 1905, which have been duly deposited with the Treasurer, and receipted for by him. It does not include the bills against the City of Hartford, which are paid directly to the Treasurer, whose report exhibits in detail the entire receipts for the current fiscal year.

During the past year practically all the subsistence supplies and furnishings for the Old People's Home have been delivered to and distributed by the Hartford Hospital, where all the accounts and records are kept. The same custom applies to the Tubercular Hospital. During the year we have charged to the Old People's Home $9,553.46 for supplies, etc., and to the Tubercular Hospital $1,952.84, making a total of $11,506.30. Deducting this amount from the gross disbursements, leaves the net disbursements for the year, $106,002.95.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Misses Pardee, money for Thanksgiving; Miss Janet Barrows, dolls and toys for children; Mr. James J. Goodwin, money for Thanksgiving and Christmas; Hartford Needle Work Guild, underwear, etc.

Many others have left various articles from time to time, without leaving their names. Some may have been accidentally omitted. To all, however, we extend our thanks, as well as to the various clergymen, choirs, visitors, and friends who have brought comfort and consolation to our wards.

GENERAL REMARKS.

While our average population has been smaller than the previous year, the results of treatment have been better, as a study of our statistical tables will prove. The Hartford Hospital is almost, if not quite, unique in the fact that it cares for every kind of case except smallpox. In addition to the usual medical and surgical wards, it has a gynecological service, a maternity ward, separate wards for eye cases, cancer, syphilis, and tuberculosis, two wards for chronic cases, and a separate cottage for contagious diseases. In addition there is a weekly clinic of diseases of the eye, ear, nose and throat for those unable to pay. Every resource of medical science is at the service of our patients, and we hope to keep pace with every real advance in knowledge and technique.

It is gratifying to report a very successful year financially. The necessary economies and retrenchments wisely inaugurated by your committee, have borne good fruit. We have nevertheless furnished everything necessary for the benefit of the patients, and maintained the very high standard of medical and surgical work characteristic of this hospital and which has justly gained honorable repute at home and abroad. The officers in the various executive departments have cooperated with me in preventing waste and needless expenditures, in better and closer buying, in the manufacture of many pharmaceutical preparations heretofore purchased, and in the supervision of the routine work. With such a spirit animating us, toil becomes a pleasure, and the coming year will, we trust, be increasingly fruitful in performance and results.

To the clergymen who have ministered to our patients, to the newspapers, who have been generous in their advocacy of our interests, to the faithful employees whose labors have not passed unrecognized, to the kind friends who have contributed of their abundance, to the medical and surgical staff, and last, but not least, to your committee I tender my grateful thanks.

Respectfully submitted,

JAMES M. KENISTON, M.D.,

Superintendent.

REPORT OF THE PATHOLOGIST AND BACTERIOLOGIST.

To the Superintendent:

The laboratory work during the past year has been much more satisfactory than heretofore, as it has been done for the first full year in our new laboratory, which furnishes vastly better light and more ample accommodations than our old quarters. Thirty-nine autopsies have been performed. The following are the most interesting lesions found:

Abscess of brain	2
Abscess of liver	2
Carcinoma of duodenum	1
Carcinoma of neck	1
Carcinoma of gall bladder	1
Carcinoma of stomach	2
Cholecyst-enteric fistula	1
Cirrhosis of liver	1
Congenital cystic kidneys	1
Empyæma	2
Endocarditis (acute)	1
Endocarditis (chronic)	4
Fracture of skull	1
Meningitis	1
Meningitis (tuberculous)	1
Nephritis (acute)	2
Nephritis (chronic)	9
Peritonitis	3
Pleurisy (chronic)	2
Pneumonia	1
Pyelo-nephritis	2
Pyo-salpinx	1
Rupture of Middle Meningeal Artery (traumatic)	1
Sclerosis of Posterior Columns of Cord	1
Tuberculosis (pulmonary)	1

The following surgical specimens have been reported on during the year, one hundred and sixteen in all.

TUMORS.

Malignant.

Carcinoma of breast	5
Carcinoma of gall bladder	1
Carcinoma of liver	4
Carcinoma of pylorus	2
Carcinoma of urethra	1
Carcinoma of uterus	1
Carcinoma epidermoid of external auditory canal	1
Carcinoma epidermoid of face	4
Carcinoma epidermoid of hand	1
Carcinoma epidermoid of neck	1
Carcinoma epidermoid of vulva	2
Sarcoma angis	1
Sarcoma round celled	5
Sarcoma endothelioma	1
Papillo-cystoma	3

Benign.

Adenoma of parotid	1
Fibro-myxoma of breast	2
Myoma of uterus	2
Myoma of broad ligament	1
Polyp (uterine)	1

Tuberculosis.

Ischio-rectal abscess	1
Tuberculosis of epididymus	1

Inflammatory.

Endometritis	10
Miscellaneous tissues	34

Products of Gestation.

Retained Placenta	1
Tubal Pregnancy	2

In addition to the above, the following clinical examinations have been made.

Routine urine examinations	4950
Examinations for the diazo-reaction	97
Examinations for urea	52
Examinations for tubercle bacilli	4
Estimations of white blood corpuscles	488
Estimations of red blood corpuscles	49
Estimations of haemoglobin	67

Differential blood counts	18
Examination of the blood for the serum reaction of typhoid	127
Examinations of blood for malaria	27
Examinations of sputum	220
Examinations of transudates and exudates	27
Examinations of stomach contents	24
Examinations of smears	52
Examinations of bacteriological cultures	100

Respectfully submitted,
WALTER R. STEINER,
Pathologist and Bacteriologist.

ACTS OF LEGISLATION.

Act Incorporating Hartford Hospital.

Resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives in General Assembly convened:

Section 1. That David Watkinson, Ebenezer Flower, A. S. Beckwith, S. S. Ward, A. W. Butler, A. M. Collins, Wm. T. Lee, Job Allyn, Samuel Colt, James B. Crosby, Albert Day, Chester Adams, James G. Bolles, George Beach, Thomas Smith, Jonathan Goodwin, A. W. Birge, Lucius Barbour, and Charles T. Hillyer, and all such persons as are from time to time associated with them, for the purpose of establishing and maintaining a hospital in the city of Hartford, and their successors, be, and they hereby are, incorporated for said purpose, and made a body corporate and politic, by the name of the Hartford Hospital, and by that name shall be capable of suing and being sued, pleading and being impleaded, and may purchase, take, receive, hold, sell, and convey estate, real and personal, to such an amount as may be necessary for the purposes of said corporation; may have a common seal, and the same may alter and change at pleasure, and may make and execute such by-laws and regulations, not contrary to the laws of this State or of the United States, as shall be deemed necessary for the well-ordering and conducting the concerns of said corporation.

Sec. 2. That said corporation shall be governed by the following articles:

Article 1. This corporation shall be called the Hartford Hospital. Persons contributing for the use of the corporation at any one time the sum of fifty dollars shall be members for life. Persons contributing the sum of five hundred dollars shall be vice-presidents for life, and also directors for life; those contributing two hundred dollars shall be directors for life; those twenty-five dollars shall be members for five years, and those ten dollars shall be members for one year.

Art. 2. In order the better to carry into effect the object of the said corporation, the members thereof shall, at an annual meeting, to be held at such time and place as the by-laws of the said corporation shall direct and appoint, elect from their own number, by ballot, and by a majority of the votes given at such election, twelve persons as directors of the said corporation; and the persons so elected, together with the mayor of the city of Hartford for the time being, shall constitute a board of directors. The directors so elected shall hold their offices for one year, and until others are elected in their places. In case of any vacancy in the board the remainder of the directors shall have power to fill such vacancy until the next election.

ART. 3. The board of directors shall, annually, as soon as may be convenient after the said annual election, elect by ballot from among their own number a president, a vice-president, and shall also elect a secretary and treasurer, who shall hold their offices for one year, and until others are elected in their stead. But as many directors may be chosen as there may be directors by subscription.

ART. 4. The said board of directors shall have power to manage and conduct all the business and concerns of the corporation, and to make such laws as may be necessary for the management and disposition of the estate and concerns of the corporation, and to appoint such officers and servants as they may deem necessary. The medical officers, including all attending and consulting physicians and surgeons, shall be appointed annually. Vacancies occurring before the expiration of the year from the time of any appointment shall be filled by the directors as soon as the same can conveniently be done.

ART. 5. A majority of the corporators shall call the first meeting for the election of officers at such time and place in the city of Hartford as they shall appoint, giving three days' notice thereof by publishing the same in the daily papers of the city; and the annual meeting of said corporation shall be held at such time and place and on such notice as shall be fixed by the by-laws of said corporation.

ART. 6. This act may be altered, amended, or repealed, by the General Assembly.

Approved, May Session, 1854.

RESOLUTION AMENDING THE CHARTER OF THE HARTFORD HOSPITAL.

Resolved, That additional members of said corporation may hereafter be elected at any annual meeting by a two-thirds vote of those present without the payment of any sum of money on the part of members so elected.

Approved, January Session, 1881.

AMENDMENT OF THE CHARTER OF THE HARTFORD HOSPITAL.

Resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives in General Assembly convened:

SECTION 1. That, in addition to the powers already conferred upon the Hartford Hospital, said corporation are hereby authorized to establish, in connection with the present hospital buildings, and upon the hospital grounds, or elsewhere, an Old People's Home, or a department or home for the accommodation, support, and maintenance of such aged and infirm persons as shall, from time to time, be admitted to the comforts and privileges of such department or home, and erect the necessary buildings therefor, and sustain the said Home with such funds and means as shall be given for that purpose, or paid by or for the benefit of the persons admitted to said Home. The board of directors of said Hartford Hospital shall have the power to make and execute any and all such by-laws, rules, and regulations in relation to such department or home, and the management of the same, and the funds pertaining thereto, and generally all the concerns of said department, not contrary to the laws of this State or of the United States, as shall be deemed necessary or proper for the well-ordering and conducting the concerns of said department, and the same to repeal or change at pleasure; and may appoint, if deemed expedient, a board of managers for said department, with such powers as they shall deem proper, and also such officers and servants as they may deem necessary.

All the rights and privileges conferred by the charter of the Hartford Hospital upon persons contributing for the use of said corporation shall be had and enjoyed by persons and parties limiting their contributions to the use of the department for the aged and the infirm as fully and to the same extent as if no such limitation was connected with such contribution.

All the money and funds already, or which shall be, given or contributed for the uses and purposes of the Hartford Hospital shall be confined to and used for the benefit of the hospital department, and all moneys and funds in any way given or contributed for the aged and infirm department shall be held and used exclusively for that department, under such rules and regulations as may be adopted in relation to a division of the common expenses pertaining to the two departments, which cannot be kept separately and accurately divided.

This department of the Hartford Hospital shall be known as the Old People's Home, and any and all moneys, gifts, legacies, devises, bequests, or other contributions given to the Old People's Home, or for its uses, or to the Hartford Hospital, or to any other trustee or trustees, for or in trust for the use of the Old People's Home, shall be good and effectual, and shall be for the use of this department for the aged and infirm created under this act.

SEC. 2. This resolution may be altered, amended, or repealed, at the pleasure of the General Assembly.

Approved, June 19, 1873.

THE TWENTY-EIGHTH ANNUAL REPORT

OF THE

Executive Committee of the Hartford Hospital Training School for Nurses.

GENTLEMEN:

Your Executive Committee herewith presents to you their Twenty-eighth Annual Report of the Hartford Hospital Training School for Nurses. The details of its administration will be found in the report of its Superintendent to which attention is herewith called. Miss Charlotte A. Brown, our Superintendent for several years, tendered her resignation to take effect as of October 1st. Miss Lauder Sutherland, Assistant Superintendent in Lakeside Hospital, Cleveland, Ohio, has been called to fill the position. We desire herewith to express our appreciation of the services rendered to the Training School by Miss Brown, our late Superintendent, through a long and trying service. It is to be realized that a Training School for Nurses conducted in relation to and under the auspices of a Hospital, is at a serious disadvantage. The Hospital necessarily receives first consideration, and the system and organization of the Training School is sacrificed in a measure to Hospital needs. In the Hospital's recent struggle with adverse vicissitudes, we are well aware we strained the organization of the Training School to the point of demoralization. To wipe out at a stroke more than one hundred applications for admission to the School, to retire eighteen of our pupil nurses and reduce our nursing force to the bare limitation of the Hospital's needs, in apparent utter disregard of the Training School's welfare, could not but have come as a shock to its organization, however well ordered. Success pardons errors, adversity never. It is not to be wondered at that the situation provoked criticism for lack of system; but the condition of the Hospital was the reason for it. It was not primarily the fault of our Superintendent. We are appreciative of and gladly pay tribute to her for so loyally supporting us through this trying ordeal. We do not wonder under the circumstances that Miss Brown became discouraged and tendered her resignation.

This year we purpose giving especial attention to the Training School and fostering its welfare. We need an increased number of nurses, a corps in reserve who can be called upon to supply extra demands that may arise in the varied service of the Hospital, and in so far as they may, perform the special nursing required. This will be not only an advantage in the training of the nurses, but also of distinct advantage to the Hospital.

Respectfully,

WILLIAM D. MORGAN, M.D.,
LOUIS R. CHENEY,
PHINEAS H. INGALLS, M.D.,

GEORGE C. F. WILLIAMS.

REPORT OF THE TRAINING SCHOOL.

To the Executive Committee of the Hartford Hospital:

GENTLEMEN:—The Twenty-eighth Annual Report of the Training School for the year ending September 30, 1905, is herewith presented.

The year has been an unusually hard one, owing principally to the insufficient number of nurses.

The demand for special work by members of the school has been so constant, that many times the force for the regular routine has been diminished to such an extent that it has been impossible to do the work creditably; at no time during the school year has the full number of nurses been on regular duty.

The inevitable result is, that the majority of nurses are too tired to get the necessary rest in the two weeks' vacation which is allowed them, therefore minor illnesses occur.

The increase of three nurses would have facilitated matters somewhat had the incoming probationers been able to do the work. Of the twenty-two who entered during the spring and summer, only thirteen remained.

Two hundred and ten (210) women have applied for admission, twenty-seven (27) have entered the Training School; three were sent away at the end of their probationary period, five did not like the work, and one was incapacitated at the end of four months' service.

The school now numbers forty-eight; nineteen seniors, eleven intermediates, ten juniors and eight probationers.

Twenty nurses have graduated during the year.

The changes in the nursing staff are as follows: On December 15 Miss Jane Bryson resigned, the vacancy was not filled until April 1st, then Miss Lucina M. Boughton (class '04) was secured for the position. Miss Edna L. Foley is succeeded by Miss Mary Coutts (class '05). The vacancy left by Miss Lucile Mast, Night Superintendent, has not been filled.

The regular number of classes have been held weekly and examinations conducted by the Medical Board.

The bi-weekly lectures by the Visiting Physicians and Surgeons have been most thoroughly appreciated.

Respectfully submitted,

CHARLOTTE A. BROWN.

The Hartford Hospital Training School for Nurses graduated its twenty-seventh class of pupils on Wednesday, October 18, 1905. The exercises were held in the Peck Memorial Hall, which was prettily decorated for the occasion.

On the platform were the Rev. Samuel Hart, D.D., the President, Vice-President and Secretary of the Hospital, the members of the Executive Committee and Board of Directors, the Superintendents of the Hospital and Training School.

Dr. Hart opened the exercises with prayer. President Harmon G. Howe gave the opening address.

A member of the graduating class, Miss Eunice Stegmann, read a carefully prepared paper on "The History of Our Training School Emblem."

Then followed the annual address by the Rev. Samuel Hart and the address to the graduating class and the distribution of diplomas and pins by Dr. P. H. Ingalls to the largest class that has ever graduated from the Training School.

The exercises were interspersed with musical selections.

After the benediction the guests adjourned to the Nurses' Home, where refreshments were served.

The graduating nurses (20 in number) are: Miss Alice Edna Brown, Miss Laura Antonia Pittner, Mrs. Aloysia Tenell LeFebvre, Miss Gertrude May Fowkes, Miss Sarah Frances Logan, Miss Blanche McKenzie McCallum, Miss Alice Helena McCormac, Miss Anabell Culross, Miss Amelia Brown Chidsey, Miss Eunice Stegmann, Miss Mary Coutts, Miss Grace Howe Emery, Miss Mary Alice Cody, Miss Grace Regina Smith, Miss Edith Culcheth, Miss Ida Harriett Lassmann, Miss Georgie Perkins Foster, Miss Martha Morton, Miss Margaret Rosalie Brennan, Miss Julia Phelon.

PROSPECTUS

OF THE

TRAINING SCHOOL FOR NURSES.

ADMISSION OF PUPILS TO THE TRAINING SCHOOL.

1. The Directors of the Hartford Hospital have made arrangements for giving a three-years course of training to women desirous of becoming professional nurses.

2. Persons wishing to receive the course must apply to the Superintendent of the Training School, where, upon approval of the Executive Committee, they will be received as pupil nurses in the school. A limited number only can be received. The declination, therefore, of a candidate, is no reflection on the individual's character; neither does it prove her to be disqualified for admission to other training schools. The reasons for declination are not given, either to applicants or probationers on duty; neither are letters addressed to the Hospital authorities returned.

3. Candidates must be unmarried or widowed, over twenty-one and under thirty-five years of age; they must present a certificate of sound health from their physician, also the names and addresses of three persons — not relatives — to whom the Hospital may refer.

Candidates when called are expected to respond promptly, and to bring with them the means of returning to their homes should they not successfully pass their probationary term.

Applications from colored candidates will not be considered.

Any change of plan or address on the part of a candidate whose name is on the waiting list should be immediately reported to the Superintendent of the Training School.

4. Accepted applicants will be received the first of January, April, July, and October, for two months on probation, during which time they will be boarded and lodged at the expense of the Hospital; but will receive no compensation if they leave before the expiration of the second month, or are found incompetent. During this period they will be required to undergo a physical examination by a member of the Visiting Staff, to pass upon their physical fitness to continue their course.

5. Pupils will not be allowed during their course of instruction to nurse sick relations at home, or to absent themselves for other than personal reasons. Absences are not allowed except for extreme cause. If for any reason a pupil is called away for a period exceeding four weeks, she loses her class position in the school; but may enter the following class, unless such absence exceeds four months, when she will cease to be a member of the school. If readmitted she must begin her course anew. This rule may be modified by the Executive Committee at its discretion. In sickness the pupils are cared for gratuitously; but all time so lost must be made up, excepting three weeks.

6. The Superintendent of the Training School will decide as to the fitness of probationers for the work, and the propriety of retaining or dismissing them. Those who prove satisfactory are accepted, and become pupils of the school, upon signing an agreement to remain three years and obey faithfully the rules of the school.

During the first six months the record of the pupil is carefully considered, and, if found unsatisfactory or unpromising, she can be dropped from the school.

She may at any future time be suspended or dismissed for misconduct, inefficiency, or the neglect of duty. After once becoming a member of the school no pupil can be dismissed without the approval of the Executive Committee.

7. Pupils receive an allowance of $8.00 per month for the entire period of three years, for the necessary expenses of books and uniforms. This sum is in nowise intended as wages, it being considered that their education during this time is a full equivalent for their services.

When the three years are completed the nurses receive, if they pass their examinations, and are otherwise satisfactory, a diploma and the graduates' pin of the school. The diploma and pin, or either, of any graduate of the Training School, may be revoked for cause by the Executive Committee.

8. The nurses will reside in the Nurses' Home, and serve as assistants in the Hospital. When on duty they are expected to wear the Training School uniform.

TRAINING.

The course embraces all branches of nursing, including medical, surgical, contagious, obstetrics, gynecological, aural, and ophthalmic, with special instructors in dietetics and massage.

Practical instruction includes:

1. The dressing of blisters, sores, and wounds; the preparation and application of fomentations and poultices.

2. Application of leeches, and subsequent treatment.

3. Administration of enemata; the use of the female catheter, and the giving of baths.

4. The care of the patients' rooms; the principles of ventilation, and their practical application.

5. In keeping all utensils perfectly clean and disinfected.

6. The best method of friction to the body and extremities.

7. Making beds and changing sheets while the patient is in bed.

8. Management of helpless patients; moving and changing positions, and prevention of bed sores.

9. Emergencies, and their treatment; bandaging, making bandages and rollers, and lining splints.

The pupils are taught to prepare foods, drinks, and stimulants for the sick; all that pertains to night, in distinction from day nursing. To report to the physicians accurate observations of the state of secretions, excretions, pulse, skin, appetite, temperature of the body, intelligence (as to delirium or stupor), breathing, sleeping, condition of wounds, eruptions, formation of matter, effect of diet, stimulants, and medicines, and to learn the management of convalescents.

Further instruction will be given by attending and resident physicians and surgeons at the bedside, and in various other ways by the Superintendent of Nurses and her assistants, and under their direction by the head nurses.

The following questions should be answered in the candidate's own handwriting, and sent with recommendations and physician's certificate to the Superintendent of Nurses, Hartford Hospital, Hartford, Conn.:

1. What is your full name?
2. What is your age?

State the place and date of your birth?

4. What is your height?
5. What is your weight?
6. Are you single, married, widowed, or divorced?
7. If married, a widow, or divorced, have you children? If so, how many, of what ages, and how provided for?
8. Are you otherwise free from responsibility, so that you are not liable to be called away before the completion of the course of study?
9. Have you any physical defects?
10. Are your sight and hearing perfect?
11. Have you any tendency to pulmonary disease?
12. What illnesses have you had?
13. Have you always been strong and healthy?
14. In what schools and places were you educated? State what your advantages have been?
15. In what occupations have you been engaged during the last two years? How long were you employed in each place?
16. Have you ever been in any training school, or employed in any hospital or asylum? If so, when, where, and how long in each place?
17. Give the names in full and addresses of three responsible persons not of your own kindred to be referred to. State their business, profession, or official position, and how long each has known you. If previously employed, one of these must be your last employer.

Having read, clearly understanding and fully agreeing to the conditions of admission, I declare the above statement made by me to be correct; and, if accepted as a candidate, I will in all respects comply with the regulations of the school and hospital.

Signed, ...

OLD PEOPLE'S HOME

THE TWENTY-FIRST ANNUAL REPORT

OF THE

OLD PEOPLE'S HOME.

To the Directors of the Hartford Hospital:

GENTLEMEN: — Your Executive Committee herewith presents the Twenty-first Annual Report of the Old People's Home for the year terminating September 30, 1905. The details of administration will be found in the Superintendent's report, to which attention is called.

The cost of operation of the Old People's Home for the year ending September 30, 1904, was $20,836.67. The cost of operation for the year terminating September 30, 1905, was $19,562.59, showing a decreased cost of $1,274.08. This saving is apparent rather than real, and is thus accounted for. The cost of repairs in 1904 amounted to $3,196.27, in 1905 to $261.48. The cost for 1904 aside from repairs was $17,740.40; for 1905, $19,301.11, showing an increased cost for 1905 of $1,560.71. Of this amount $446.07 is by increased expenditure in the Treasurer's office, mainly insurance, and the remainder in increased cost of supplies.

We gladly concur in the recommendation of our Superintendent for the construction of generous piazzas for the use of the inmates. These can so be constructed as to serve for fire-escapes, far more satisfactory than the antiquated and gymnastical constructions we are at present dependent upon. A contract has been made for replumbing of the entire institution. Our thanks are due the Superintendent. Matron and Employees for the faithful service rendered during the year.

Respectfully,

WILLIAM D. MORGAN, M.D.,
LOUIS R. CHENEY,
PHINEAS H. INGALLS, M.D.,

J. HOWARD MORSE,

SUPERINTENDENT'S REPORT.

To the Executive Committee:

GENTLEMEN: — The Twenty-first Annual Report of the Old People's Home for the year ending September 30, 1905, is herewith submitted.

On October 1, 1904, there were present 78 inmates; 19 males and 59 females. Sixty-six were permanent inmates and twelve were boarders.

The ages of the permanent inmates were as follows:

Between 60 and 70	9
Between 70 and 80	29
Between 80 and 90	23
Over 90	5

Eleven inmates have died during the year — 9 females, 2 males, viz.:

Olive A. Lampson, age 85; residence, 2 years, 4 months, 25 days.

Eliza A. Loomis, age 93; residence, 14 years, 7 months.

Cordelia W. Goffe, age 87; residence, 17 years, 3 months, 1 day.

Sarah G. Williams, age 71; residence, 5 years, 2 months, 5 days.

Mary E. Redway, age 72; residence, 7 years, 2 months, 24 days.

Joseph H. Fogg, age 82; residence, 2 years, 8 months, 9 days.

Mary Loomis, age 100; residence, 19 years, 11 months, 27 days.

Henry C. Munson, age 85; residence, 4 years, 11 months, 12 days.

Julia A. Dunbar, age 85; residence, 4 years, 6 months, 24 days.

Josephine Koehler, age 78; residence, 15 years, 5 months, 24 days.

Esther Barber, age 89; residence, 4 years, 6 months, 13 days.

Two of the above were boarders.

During the year there have been admitted 11 inmates — all females. One remained only a few weeks when she left to accept a home with her brother.

On September 30, 1905, there remained 66 permanent inmates — 14 males and 52 females; and 7 boarders — 1 male and 6 females.

The ages of the permanent inmates are:

Between 60 and 70	13
Between 70 and 80	31
Between 80 and 90	19
Over 90	3

Five inmates are supported by the William R. Morgan Trust Income. At the present time we have four vacant rooms.

CONTRIBUTIONS.

Oct. 1, 1904, to Sept. 30, 1905.

From Mrs. Mary S. Munsill — 1904, Dec. 25, box of handkerchiefs and money for every one in the Home, with beautiful box of candy; 1905, Jan. 28, two boxes of oranges; Mar. 29, clothing and reading matter; Easter, arbutus for the old gentlemen; June 1, crate blackberries; July, three baskets of apples.

From Miss Mary Clark — 1904, Thanksgiving, ice cream and cake.

From the Misses Pardee — 1904, Oct. 26, flowers; Nov. 24, Thanksgiving, five dollars and flowers; Dec. 25, Christmas, thirty dollars and flowers; 1905, Mar. 29, flowers; Easter, two boxes of oranges.

OTHER GIFTS.

Mrs. Judson H. Root — clothing.

Mr. H. K. Morgan — box of oranges.

Mrs. Leverett Brainard — box of clothing.

Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Buckley — jars of candy and cards.
Miss Austin — flowers.
Mrs. Henry A. Redfield — reading matter.
Mr. Edwin Brower — flowers.
Mrs. John M. Holcomb — rolling chair.
Three dollars for trolley rides.
Grapes from the estate of Mrs. Elizabeth H. Colt.
Kingsley & Smith — box of oranges.
Willing Workers — ice cream.

The Hartford Times, the Ladies' Home Journal, and the Travelers' Record have been received regularly, through the kindness of the publishers.

ENTERTAINMENTS.

Nov. 20, 1904 — Quartet from Trinity Glee Club.

Dec. 2, 1904 — Circle of King's Daughters of Memorial Baptist Church, music and readings.

Jan. 5, 1905 — Entertainment given by young people of Church of Good Shepherd.

Jan. 24, 1905 — Elks Minstrels and Orchestra.

Feb. 14, 1905 — Peddlers' parade by young people of the Presbyterian Church.

Mar. 24, 1905 — "Old Maids' Convention," by young people of Wethersfield and Wethersfield Band.

Mar. 27, 1905 — The King's Daughters of the Church of the Redeemer.

Moving pictures, given by Mr. W. H. Rhodes during the season, were much enjoyed.

All of these entertainments have given great enjoyment to members of the Home and we trust more will be given this winter, as it helps greatly to pass the long winter evenings away pleasantly.

The King's Daughters meet at the Home once a month.

Regular services were held in Memorial Hall from October to July every Sunday afternoon from 3 to 4 o'clock by the clergymen of the city, and have been well attended.

The annual fair and sale took place in December.

NEEDS.

I would again call attention to the need of an elevator, and balconies on each floor. These balconies should be quite large, and absolutely fireproof, and would afford, in addition to the privilege of open air exercise, an additional source of refuge and escape in case of fire.

The entire plumbing of the Home has become practically obsolete after a service of over twenty years, and must be entirely renewed. The matter has been arranged for, but will necessarily entail a large expense. When finished the entire plumbing will be thoroughly up to date.

The piano in the Assembly Hall is almost if not quite worn out. As it is used at entertainments as well as at the religious services, a new one is needed.

The Matron has recently celebrated in a quiet manner the anniversary of twenty years of faithful and efficient service. To her and her co-workers a meed of recognition is due. Our thanks are extended to all the kind friends and visitors who have furnished refreshments and entertainment to the inmates, thereby enlivening many days and hours.

Appended to this report is a statement of the receipts and disbursements.

Respectfully submitted,

JAMES M. KENISTON, M.D., Supt.

TERMS OF ADMISSION.

ARTICLE I. Applicants for admission to the Old People's Home must be citizens of the County of Hartford, persons of good character, not under sixty years of age, and in reduced circumstances.

ARTICLE II. The preliminary conditions of admission for permanent inmates will be as follows, viz:

Applicants over the age of sixty years will be required to pay $1,000 on admission.

This admission fee must be paid to the Treasurer of the Hospital upon the entrance of applicant.*

Applicants for temporary accommodations in the Home will be charged such a sum as the Executive Committee may find necessary to cover the expenses of board, washing, etc.

Such occupancy will be limited at the discretion of said committee.

ARTICLE III. A probationary period of two months will be required before the applicant can be confirmed as a permanent inmate of the Home.

ARTICLE IV. Applications for admission must be made to the Executive Committee, and a full statement of the circumstances of the applicant must be given.

ARTICLE V. Every person admitted as a permanent inmate shall sign and execute, in a book kept by the Superintendent, the agreement and conveyance hereto annexed.

ARTICLE VI. No article of furniture shall be brought into the institution without the consent of the Executive Committee; such articles as shall be admitted shall be and become the absolute property of the Hospital.

ARTICLE VII. Form of agreement: The undersigned having been received as a permanent inmate and beneficiary of

* If from any cause an individual is not confirmed, the amount paid will be refunded, after deducting the price of the board, etc., while a resident of the Home.

the Old People's Home, a department of the Hartford Hospital, in the city of Hartford, now, in consideration of the benefits assured to me as such beneficiary and of my admission thereto, I do hereby assent to and promise compliance with the rules and regulations of such Home as they exist at the date hereof, and as the same shall be made, amended, or modified thereafter, and I do hereby sell, assign, set over, and convey unto the Directors of the Hartford Hospital, and their successors and assigns forever, all the goods, chattels, effects, and personal property of every kind, and all real estate, wheresoever the same may be situated, which I now possess, or to which I shall hereafter become entitled during my residence at the Home; and I hereby make and appoint the Treasurer of the Hartford Hospital, and his successor and successors in office, my attorney and trustee irrevocable, with full power and authority to demand, receive, collect, and recover said property, effects, and claims for the purposes hereinbefore and hereinafter stated, to pay and deliver the same to said Home. It is also understood that I may at any time terminate my connection with the Home, and that the Executive Committee of the Hospital may in their discretion, at any time, require me to do the same. It is, however, understood that, upon payment to said Hospital of such sum or sums of money as fixed by the Executive Committee as a fair compensation for my support, and charges against me to the full extent, and for all the term in which I shall have been an inmate of said Home, then I am to receive from said Hospital such property as I have transferred to it, or the proceeds of such property as the Executive Committee may have disposed of.

HOUSE RULES.

Article I. — Duties of Matron.

The Matron shall have the general care of the domestic affairs of the Home and of the inmates, subject to the direction of the Superintendent and Executive Committee. No person will be permitted to interfere or find fault with the Matron; but if any inmate has cause for complaint, application must be made to the Executive Committee, who will receive any statement and take action thereon as they think proper. She shall see that all inmates, who are able to do so, shall take their meals at the family table, and that proper order is preserved; also, that suitable food shall be provided for the sick.

Article II. — Duties of Inmates.

Any inmate wishing to leave the house to visit friends or otherwise must apply to the Matron for her assent, stating where he or she intends going, and when he or she expects to return. Every inmate who is able to do so will be required to keep his or her room neat and clean, and the furniture in order, and to make themselves generally useful. Any inmate who shall be guilty of circulating reports injurious to the reputation of the Home, criticising or finding fault with the management, creating dissatisfaction or disturbance among its inmates, shall be admonished, and on repetition of such offense shall hereby forfeit his or her privileges, and be dismissed from the institution. It shall not be allowable for the male or female inmates to visit each other's rooms, but they may meet in the corridors, which will always be open to them.

Article III. — Visitors.

The friends of inmates, and the public generally, may visit the Home on Thursday, between the hours of 10 and 12 o'clock A. M., and from 2 to 4 o'clock P. M. At other times visitors will be admitted only by permission of the Superintendent or Matron.

ARTICLE IV. — PHYSICIANS.

No physician except those connected with the Hospital will be allowed to attend the inmates, except by permission of the Chairman or some member of the Executive Committee.

ARTICLE V.

No spirituous liquors shall be brought into the Home, nor shall any be used by any inmate, unless the same be prescribed by the attending physician, and placed in charge of and administered by the Matron.

ARTICLE VI.

The lights shall be extinguished in the rooms of the inmates at nine in the evening, and in the halls and corridors at 10 P. M., unless the Matron, for good reasons, directs otherwise.

ARTICLE VII.

Upon the death of an inmate, the Matron shall immediately notify the Executive Committee, and also the friends, as far as their address may be ascertained. Should the funeral take place from the Home, the arrangements shall be uniform in all cases, and shall be made under the direction of the Executive Committee. The friends of the deceased may defray the expenses, or remove the remains elsewhere for interment by permission of the Superintendent.

ARTICLE VIII.

Willful violation of any of these rules or regulations by any of the inmates shall render such person liable to dismissal, in which case he or she shall not be entitled to a return of any moneys paid by such individual; such clothing or other personal effects belonging to the person dismissed may be taken. The Executive Committee may make such dismissal. Persons expelled will not be permitted to visit the Home under any circumstances. In all matters of difference between the inmates the decision of the Superintendent shall be conclusive, until modified or reversed by the Executive Committee. The orders of the Superintendent and Matron, in all matters relating to the domestic government of the family, must be observed by all inmates; such orders must be reported to the Executive Committee.

FORM OF BEQUEST.

I give to the Hartford Hospital of the city of Hartford .....dollars, for the uses of the Old People's Home, a department of said Hospital.

FORM OF BEQUEST FOR FREE BED.

I give to the Hartford Hospital of the city of Hartford the sum of five thousand dollars, to be used in the maintenance of a free bed in the Old People's Home, a department of said Hospital.

STATE OF CONNECTICUT.

COMPTROLLER'S OFFICE,

HARTFORD, October 11, 1905.

To His Excellency the Governor:

In compliance with the statute, I herewith submit the annual report of the State's Attorneys and Prosecuting Attorneys, concerning the criminal business of the courts for the year ended July 1, 1905.

The total number of cases disposed of during the year was thirteen hundred thirty two (1332), a decrease of twenty-six (26) from the number for the preceding year.

Total number of convictions was one hundred thirteen (113), a decrease of twenty (20). The amount of forfeited bonds reported is eleven thousand, nine hundred eighty-five dollars ($11,985.00), a decrease of five thousand, five hundred twenty-five dollars ($5525.00) from the amount reported for the preceding year.

Respectfully submitted,

ASAHEL W. MITCHELL,

Comptroller.

REPORT OF DIRECTORS.

To His Excellency, Henry Roberts, Governor:

SIR:—Slightly sagging, the daily average population of the Connecticut State Prison for the fiscal year ending September 30, 1905, was 471. That figure, modest as to its magnitude, dipped below the daily average count for the previous twelvemonth by 9, and below the annual average for the past five years by 17. Whatever may be the fundamental reason for the shrinkage in the size of the felon colony—whether the cause be found in the prevailing industrial prosperity which curbs the opportunities for the mischief which Satan finds for idle hands to do, or whether it be found in the tendency of courts, in cases of optional penalties, to send a larger proportion of convicted criminals to jail instead of to Wethersfield—the fact that the ratio of the prison census to the general census of the state is now substantially smaller than it was seven or eight years ago looms up strikingly.

But whatever the temporary fluctuations and occasional recessions may be, the ultimate trend of the prison population is bound to make for expansion in conformity with the growth of the state.

REVENUES

The earnings from productive convict labor aggregated $55,079, and supplementary receipts from various sources swelled the total income to $58,737, the fattest figure for any year in the history of the prison. Roundly the revenues were 68 per cent. of the gross operating expenses of the institution, and consequently the drafts which were made on the state treasury were not bulky and burdensome.

Of the biennial legislative appropriation of $80,000, which lapsed at the close of the fiscal period, $30,718 was left untouched and undrawn. This unexpended balance, exceeding 38 per cent. of the total grant, surpasses that for any preceding fiscal term, and except for the insane ward, which consumes revenue without producing any, the amount would have been still plumper. On the whole, the year's financial showing, especially in view of the fact that the higher prices of provisions and supplies inevitably increased the cost of maintenance, is favorable and gratifying.

LIFE CONVICTS

The ratio of life convicts continues to be commandingly higher than may be found in most American prisons. Of the 473 prisoners undergoing confinement at the close of the fiscal year not less than 58, or more than 12 per cent. of the entire number, were serving life sentences. Their ages run from 26 to 89 years. The periods of their individual confinement range from a few months to 46 years, and the aggregate length of imprisonment served by them foots up approximately 743 years—a striking and melancholy total which is equivalent to nearly twenty-three generations of human life and which, translated into terms of history, would cover a span of years beginning more than half a century prior to the signing of Magna Charta at Runnymede in 1215 and extending to the close of the war between Russia and Japan.

With just enough exceptions to prove the rule this large body of life prisoners is orderly and well-behaved, although not unnaturally the tendency of them to drift into insanity is much greater than obtains among other convicts.

AGE OF OFFENDERS

Study of the ages of the prisoners at Wethersfield suggestively indicates the periods of life in which felony is the most likely to be committed. Of the 473 offenders under lock and key at the close of the fiscal year 47 were under 20 years old at the time of their admission to the institution, and not less than 252 were under 30. Only 31 were on the sunset side of 50. Of the total number committed during the past decade, fully 8 per cent. were under 20 at the date of sentence and about 53 per cent. were under 30. After the age of 30 the proportion of commitments begins to dwindle rapidly.

The comparative youthfulness of persons who commit the bulk of serious offenses is a fundamental fact in connection with the problem of crime. The period between 16 and 30 is the criminal age. It is likewise the age of character-building. Then the functional activities attain their maximum; then the fires of passion and of emotion wax hottest; then the spirit of incautious adventure exercises the greatest influence on the cross purposes of life; and then the responsiveness of the individual to his environment, whether helpful or hurtful, is promptest. Constantly the fact that a majority of felons are under middle age needs to be recognized in scientific penal management.

METHODS. Practically the same administrative methods which have been operative for several years and which have produced satisfactory results were continued, and the effort to bring various sustaining and helpful forces to play on the intellectual nature of the prisoners was kept up. Incidentally the prison school, at which the rudimentary branches are taught to illiterate offenders and which was attended by convicts representing twelve or fifteen nationalities, with educated prisoners as teachers, was conducted three nights a week from October to June, and proved to be a useful branch of prison administration. The circulation of the prison library, from which inmates may draw books twice a week, amounted to nearly 22,000 volumes. The Monthly Record, whose contents are mainly contributed by prisoners, and the grading system, which makes it worth while for offenders to practice a policy of sustained good behavior, are other characteristic agencies which were beneficially employed.

But, of course, in the case of an irreducible minimum of convicts, who are instinctive or habitual criminals or who are so weak of will that, unresisting, they knuckle to temptation, the restorative resources of administration are merely temporarily restraining without being permanently corrective.

The reports of the warden, of the chaplains, and of the physicians, with the usual tabulated data, are appended.

Respectfully submitted,

REPORT OF THE WARDEN.

The Honorable Board of State Prison Directors:

GENTLEMEN:—I have the honor to submit herewith my report as warden for the year ending September 30, 1905, together with the financial statement and statistical tables covering the same period.

The highest number in confinement for the year was 488, on March 11, and the lowest number was 448, on September 14 and 15. The average daily population of 470.95, as compared with last year's population of 480.21, shows a decrease of 9.26.

Of the $80,000 appropriation for the two fiscal years ending September 30, 1905, there was drawn in 1904, $22,645.33, and in 1905, $26,636.01, leaving a net balance in the State Treasury of $30,718.46.

The amount earned from convict labor was $55,079.08, and the income from all other sources amounted to $3,658.65, making a total income of $58,737.73, the largest in the history of the institution.

During the year prices of supplies have been high. The cost of provisions per capita per day was 8.72 cents as compared with 7.54 cents for 1904. At this time the cost of all provisions, wool and cotton goods and other supplies is higher than for several years, with no prospect of lower prices in the near future.

The general health and discipline throughout the year have been normal, and the entire institution is in excellent repair.

The State Board of Charities and the Connecticut Prison Association have each rendered splendid service in their lines of work in this institution.

To the Hartford Christian Endeavor Union, Rev. W. W. Ranney, Hon. Michael Kenealy, Mrs. Florence Crosby Cook, and to other ladies and gentlemen I am deeply indebted for favors extended.

Again my thanks are recorded for the faithful attendance and excellent work of the Catholic and Protestant Sunday school teachers.

With the highest consideration for your continued kindness and support, I am, Gentlemen,

Very respectfully,

ALBERT GARVIN,
Warden.

WETHERSFIELD, Oct. 1, 1905.

REPORT OF THE PROTESTANT CHAPLAIN.

To the Honorable Board of Connecticut State Prison Directors:

GENTLEMEN:—I hereby submit to you my report of the work under the direction of the Protestant Chaplain, for the year ending September 30, 1905.

RELIGIOUS WORK.

Three services a week have been held. They are the Christian Endeavor on Thursday evenings, for eight months of the year, from October 1, 1904, to June 1, 1905; and the Sunday school and the preaching services throughout the year. The two latter were briefly interrupted while repairs were being made in the chapel, consisting of a new steel ceiling and repainting.

As in former years an efficient force of laymen from the Protestant and the Catholic churches of Hartford have faithfully taught in the Sunday school. The International Sunday school lessons and the Catechism have been the means used by them respectively for religious teaching. We appreciate the work of these faithful teachers.

The Christian Endeavor is the prisoners' meeting for singing, quoting verses from the Bible, speaking of God's goodness and praying for God's mercy.

By daily visits through the hospital I have kept in close sympathy with the sick and the aged. By calls along the galleries on the men in their cells I have found many opportunities for words of cheer and hope with their efforts for better things.

EDUCATIONAL WORK.

The night school has been held three nights a week for eight months, from October 1, 1904, to June 1, 1905, ninety-nine sessions in all. The total attendance has been 8,503; the average attendance 85 8-9. The total number under instruction has been 105; the total number of teachers 13.

The branches taught are reading—more than half in the first and second readers—spelling, writing and arithmetic. The teachers are the better educated of the prisoners who are willing thus to help the illiterate. The scholars because of their illiteracy are picked out to attend the school and for them attendance is compulsory. While most of the scholars are of foreign birth, many of them unable to speak the English language, some are from homes of English speaking parents, now first learning to read and write in our school. Though a few fail to make perceptible gain in knowledge a great majority make creditable progress. Those who desire and try to learn, do learn.

The object in this effort to educate is reformation by making each man capable and self-reliant in matters of correspondence and ordinary business dealings, and by enabling him to read periodicals and books with pleasure and profit to himself. When he can read, write and cipher he has a fair start. If in the school we can teach him to think as well as read, and quicken his mental activity, then he can, by himself, make profitable use of the books in the library and of the Bible, which is always in his cell.

The library contains about 5,500 volumes by purchase, gifts or binding of magazines. These are all selected and classified with care. They cover the various departments of biography, literature, history, religion, science and travel. The number of drawings of books from the library for the year was 21,601. There have been covered and recovered 5,388 volumes and 396 repaired. Of all the books I think it is safe to say the Bible is the most widely read and the strongest in its influence.

The holidays of the year have been observed by appropriate exercises in the chapel. The ladies of the Wethersfield W. C. T. U. made their annual gift of a bouquet of flowers with selected verse of scripture, to each prisoner. It is a pleasure here to record our gratitude to these ladies and gentlemen who have done kindly deeds which, surely in this prison life, are long remembered and appreciated.

The Monthly Record has aimed to have an influence on prison thought of a sane and healthful kind.

CORRESPONDENCE.

The number of letters sent out by prisoners for the year was 8,965. The number of letters received by them was 10,258.

To you, Gentlemen of the Board, to the Warden and to the Deputy, and to all the officers of the prison, I tender my grateful appreciation of the uniform courtesy and kindness shown me in the discharge of my duties.

Respectfully submitted,

TIMOTHY CURRIER CRAIG,

WETHERSFIELD, November 11, 1905. Protestant Chaplain.

REPORT OF THE ROMAN CATHOLIC CHAPLAIN.

To the Directors of the Connecticut State Prison, James W. Cheney, President:

GENTLEMEN:—I have the honor to submit my report of the religious department of the Connecticut State Prison, for the year ending September 30, 1905.

My work among the Catholic inmates of the prison has been carried on in about the same manner as in the past. The Holy Sacrifice of the mass is celebrated every Sunday at 8:30 a. m., and an appropriate instruction is given on such subjects as are deemed suitable to the condition and requirements of the men. The Sunday school is faithfully and scrupulously observed at 9:30 a. m., and in this department we are very ably assisted by teachers from the Holy Name Society of Hartford. This society, composed of men of well known ability and standing in the community, voluntarily and sometimes at no little inconvenience devote one hour each Sunday to teaching the Christian doctrine and giving other necessary instruction.

I visit the hospital frequently, and the spiritual wants and comforts of Holy Religion are administered to its inmates.

Twice a year, at Christmas and Easter, opportunities of approaching the Sacraments of Penance and Holy Eucharist are afforded the prisoners. On these occasions I secure clergymen of different nationalities, who assist me in administering to the spiritual wants of those foreigners who cannot speak the English language. It is my joy and consolation to record here the large number that avail themselves of those golden opportunities. Our library is well equipped with standard religious literature and has recently been notably increased by a large collection of valuable Catholic works by our ever-vigilant and considerate Warden.

During the year our commodious, comfortable and attractive chapel was thoroughly renovated, so that it is now the admiration of all who visit it.

To the Catholic Transcript we are indebted for its weekly editions which are distributed to the men every Sunday.

In the furtherance of prison reform, the Chaplain can be very materially assisted by the officials of the institution, and I am happy to say that at all times, whether on the occasion of my Sunday visit, when summoned to the sick bed of an inmate or on any other business, I have uniformly met with kindness and courtesy from Warden Garvin and his officers, for which I take occasion here to express my heartfelt thanks.

I am, Gentlemen,
Respectfully yours,
JEREMIAH J. DUGGAN,
Catholic Chaplain.

WETHERSFIELD, November 12, 1905.

INSANE WARD.

Population, September 30, 1904	21
Admitted during the year	16
	—	37
Discharged by expiration of sentence	10
Died	1
	—	11
Population, September 30, 1905		26

I wish to extend to you, Gentlemen, and to Warden Garvin my gratitude, and to House Physician Liebman and Deputy Baisden my appreciation of the assistance rendered me in the discharge of my duties.

Very respectfully,

EDWARD G. FOX, M. D.

WETHERSFIELD, September 30, 1905.

REPORT OF THE CONSULTING PHYSICIAN IN INSANITY.

To the Honorable Board of Directors:

Gentlemen:—I submit herewith the report for the insane ward during the past year.

Total number of patients, September 30, 1904.....	21
Admitted during the year.....	16
	—	37
Discharged by expiration of sentence.....	10
Died.....	1
	—	11
Total number, September 30, 1905.....		26

The forms of mental disease in these patients are as follows:

Dementia.....	6
Melancholia.....	4
Paranoia.....	9
Hypomania.....	2
Paresis.....	2
Syphilitic.....	1
Traumatic.....	1
Paranoid Dementia.....	1
	26

The physical condition of these patients is relatively good. This is due to the fact of their being three to five hours daily in the open air, engaged in light exercise, together with relief from enforced labor for which they are not capable, and with a regulated life. They regularly gain in their general condition, and their hallucinations and delusions lose their strength, and become nearly dormant. Their conduct seldom gives occasion for trouble. I can bear testimony to the efficient supervision of the Warden, the physician in charge, and of Officer Linscott.

Respectfully submitted,

FREDERICK T. SIMPSON, M. D.,

Consulting Physician in Insanity.

HARTFORD, November 22, 1905.

CERTIFICATE OF AUDITORS.

WETHERSFIELD, Conn., November 25, 1905.

This certifies that we have examined the accounts of Albert Garvin, Warden of the Connecticut State Prison, and compared the same with the vouchers therefor, and found them correct. The balance in the hands of said Warden, October 1, 1905, was ten hundred fifty-three dollars and nineteen cents ($1,053.19) of which one hundred ninety-nine dollars and ninety-two cents ($199.92) was cash, and the remainder, eight hundred fifty-three dollars and twenty-seven cents ($853.27) was on deposit with the Hartford Trust Co. of Hartford.

JAMES P. BREE,
WILLIAM P. BAILEY,
Auditors of Public Accounts.

I hereby certify that the foregoing financial and statistical statements are correct as taken from the books and records in the office of the Connecticut State Prison.

OFFICE OF

THE CONNECTICUT PRISON ASSOCIATION,

ROOM 83, STATE CAPITOL, HARTFORD, CONN.

To His Excellency, HENRY ROBERTS,
Governor of the State of Connecticut:

SIR:—

We have the honor to submit herewith the second report on the operation of the probation system, the same covering the fourteen months ending with September 30, 1905.

This report is made for fourteen months to cause it to include the entire fiscal year which ended with date last above given, and to comply with the provisions of Section 183, Chapter 13 of the General Statutes: the law creating the probation system became in force August 1, 1903, and our first annual report was to August 1, 1904.

The gradual and healthy increased use of the probation system indicates that it continues to be favorably regarded by the Judges and other Court officials, by practicing attorneys and the public generally. Whenever it can be used in restraining and correcting offenders, instead of confining them in County Jails under the debasing influences so prevalent in such institutions, it certainly works a decided moral gain: in cases where the head of a family is, under the probation system, continued in wage earning support of his family, instead of being incarcerated in jail to become a charge on the taxpayer while support of his family is left to individual or public charity, the economical gain is plainly and immediately apparent.

We trust that the report herewith submitted will have the approval of your Excellency.

Respectfully,

THE CONNECTICUT PRISON ASSOCIATION,

By JOHN C. TAYLOR, Secretary.

By the General Assembly, Jan. Session, A. D. 1905.

[CHAPTER 142.]

AN ACT

AMENDING AN ACT PROVIDING FOR THE APPOINTMENT OF PROBATION OFFICERS, DEFINING THEIR DUTIES, AND PROVIDING FOR THE SEPARATE TRIAL OF JUVENILE OFFENDERS.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives in General Assembly convened:

SECTION 1. Chapter 126 of the Public Acts of 1903 is hereby amended to read as follows: The judge of every superior court and of every criminal court of common pleas may, and the judge of every district, police, city, borough, and town court shall, appoint, within three months after the passage of this act, one or more probation officers, male or female, to act under the directions of such court, and may remove them at pleasure.

SEC. 2. The duties of such probation officers shall be: (1) To investigate the case of any person brought, or about to be brought, before the court, under whose direction he is a probation officer, for any misdemeanor or any crime not punished by imprisonment in the state prison, the object of such investigation being to ascertain the history and previous conduct of the person so arrested and such other facts as may show whether he or she may properly be released on probation under the provisions of this act, and after an arrest such probation officer shall, whenever possible, have opportunity to confer with the accused before his arraignment in court. (2) To report to the court the facts so ascertained. (3) To preserve complete records of all such cases investigated, including descriptions sufficient for identification, with the findings of the court, its action in the case, and the subsequent history of the probationer, in such form as may be prescribed under the provisions of this act. Such records shall be a part of the records of said court and shall at all times be opened to the inspection of all officers of the court. (4) To make such other reports as the court may direct or as may be by law required. (5) To take charge of all persons so placed on probation under such regulations and for such time as may be prescribed by the court, giving to each probationer full instructions as to the term of his release upon probation, and requiring from him such periodical reports as shall keep the officer informed as to his conduct.

SEC. 3. Whenever any minor shall have been arrested, the probation officer shall, as soon after the arrest as practicable, be notified by the police in order that he may, before the trial, ascertain the facts in the case. Pending such investigation, the court may commit the accused to the custody of the probation officer.

SEC. 4. In cases within its jurisdiction any criminal court, after hearing, may adjourn the case or suspend sentence and commit the accused to the custody of a probation officer for such time, not exceeding one year, as the court may fix. If the sentence is to pay a fine and to stand committed until the same is paid, the fine may be paid to said probation officer at any time during the period of probation, whereupon the order of commitment shall be void. Said officer shall give a receipt for every fine so paid, shall keep a record of the same, shall pay the fine to the clerk of the court at its next session, and shall keep on file the clerk's receipt therefor.

SEC. 5. Every person placed on probation under the provisions of this act shall, during the term fixed for such probation, observe all rules prescribed for his conduct by the court, report to the probation officer as directed, and maintain a correct life. In case of failure to meet any of these requirements, and at any time prior to the final disposition of the case of any person placed on probation in the custody of a probation officer, said officer may arrest him without a warrant or other process and bring him before the court, or the court may issue a warrant directing that he be arrested and brought before it. When such person is brought before the court, the court may revoke the suspension of the execution of his sentence, whereupon his sentence shall be in full force and effect, or the court may continue the suspension. Probation officers shall not be active members of any regular police force, or sheriffs or deputy sheriffs, but shall, in the execution of their official duties, have all the powers of police officers. The records of any of said probation officers may at all times be inspected by the chief of police of any city or town, or the sheriff or deputy sheriff of any county.

SEC. 6. Probation officers shall be reimbursed for all necessary expenses incurred in the prosecution of their duties under this act, and shall receive compensation for actual service in cities of fifty thousand inhabitants or over at such rate not exceeding four dollars per day, and in all other cities and towns of the state at such rate not exceeding three dollars per day, as may be fixed by the court appointing such officers, said compensation and expenses to be paid, upon the order of the court, by the county treasurer of the county in which such superior court, criminal court of common pleas, or district court is held, and by the treasurer of the city, borough, or town in which such police, city, borough, or town court is held.

SEC. 7. In case of the absence of the probation officer, any court may appoint a probation officer pro tempore, who shall have all the powers and perform all the duties of the probation officer, and who shall receive as compensation for each day's service a sum equal to the rate per day of the salary of the probation officer, to be paid in the manner provided in the preceding section.

SEC. 8. Any justice of the peace before whom is brought a person who, in his judgment, ought to be released on probation, may appoint a probation officer pro tempore for the care of the accused, who shall serve without compensation.

SEC. 9. Every person placed in charge of a probation officer according to the provisions of this act shall be considered the ward of said probation officer within the provisions of section 2695 of the general statutes.

SEC. 10. The probation service of the state shall be under the general supervision of the Connecticut Prison Association, whose officers shall prepare such blanks for reports and such books for record, including a description of each probationer sufficient for identification, as may be required for the efficiency of this service, and these books and blanks shall be provided by the comptroller and furnished to all probation officers at the expense of the state. The clerk of every court by which a probation officer is appointed under this act shall forthwith notify said Prison Association of the name of the officer so appointed. Every probation officer shall make a quarterly report to said Prison Association in such form as said Prison Association shall direct. Said Prison Association shall annually make a report to the governor on the operation of the probation system and its results, together with recommendations for the improvement of the service. The comptroller is hereby authorized to pay, on the requisition of the secretary of the Connecticut Prison Association, a sum not exceeding fifty dollars per month for clerical services to carry out the provisions of this act.

REPORT OF THE TRUSTEES

OF THE

Connecticut School for Boys.

———o———

To His Excellency, HENRY ROBERTS, Governor of the State of Connecticut:

Sir:—The Trustees of the Connecticut School for Boys, in compliance with the laws of the State, respectfully submit the following statement of their management of the School during the fiscal year ending September 30, 1905. Reference is made to the reports of the Superintendent and other officers for detailed information concerning the several departments respectively administered by them, and such reports are made a part of this report.

At the date of our last annual report the work on the hospital for contagious diseases was approaching completion, and the installation of new lavatories had commenced. These improvements were completed before severe winter weather set in. The School is now provided with adequate means for meeting any outbreak of contagious disease. The hospital has accomodations for twenty or more cases at the same time, with proper provisions for the necessary nurses to care for the patients. A well equipped kitchen, ample bathing facilities and closet accommodations further fit and adapt it for the proper care of the inmates of the School in the event of an epidemic. The installation of the new lavatories was a marked improvement in sanitary conditions and called for an expenditure of two hundred and thirty-seven dollars.

The only new work of a permanent charactar during the fiscal year has been the building of an addition to Cottage B. Delays, usual in the case of such work, have occured and it is not yet quite finished. The plan of Cottage B. was faulty in providing but one exit from the boys' dormitory, and in that different rooms on the first floor were not connected with each other except by passing down a flight of stairs into the basement and then up another flight of stairs, a source of great inconvenience to the officers. The Trustees deemed it unsafe that the building should remain longer without such changes as would furnish a second exit from the dormitory in case of a fire. The addition provides for such an exit, and removes the inconvenience arising from the other defect in the plan above mentioned. The entire cost of this addition will be somewhat more than thirteen hundred dollars. Seven hundred of this has already been paid.

Repair work during the year has been large. The expenditures on the tin roof and gutters of the main building have been about seven hundred and sixty dollars. A new floor in basement of the South Division cost two hundred and eighty-five dollars. Repairs and changes in the tenement occupied by the teamster cost about two hundred and fifty dollars. A new hot water tank was placed in the engine room at an expense of over two hundred dollars. The exterior wood work of the main building has been painted during the year and a large amount of painting and kalsomining has been done in the main building and the cottages. Besides these items there have been numerous small repairs made in and about the buildings in keeping with the purpose of the Trustees to make from time to time such repairs as will keep the property of the State at all times in good condition.

The farm equipment has been increased by the purchase of a pair of heavy farm horses at the cost of four hundred and fifty dollars. By building a piece of retaining wall near the contagious hospital at an expense of one hundred and twenty-five dollars, facilities for storing more than three hundred tons of coal have been provided. This additional storage room was very much needed.

Plans have been prepared for the construction of a gymnasium for the use of the inmates of the School. This work, involving as it does the expenditure of a large amount of money, cannot be provided for from the revenues of any one fiscal year. It was not deemed wise to commence the construction of the building this season in view of the large amount of repair work and the expense of the addition to Cottage B. It is, however, our purpose to begin the work of construction during the new fiscal year, and the Trustees hope to be able to complete the work within two fiscal years without calling upon the State for any special appropriation. Our plans contemplate a building costing about ten thousand dollars, and it is believed the proposed building will furnish all needed facilities for gymnastic training and exercises.

As respects the general administration of the School, there is no feature calling for special notice. No changes, save in minor details, have been made in the methods pursued to provide for the boys committed to our charge such guidance and restraint, and such instruction as will fit them upon leaving the Institution to lead useful lives.

There has been a steady adherence to the plan of putting each boy, as he enters the Institution, upon his honor and good behavior, and he soon realizes that the time of his release depends only upon his own behavior and the industry and faithfulness with which he applies himself to the studies, labors and duties required of him while he remains in the School. The discipline during the year has been all that could be expected, and with few exceptions the conduct of the boys has shown their appreciation of the work the State seeks to do for them.

After the somewhat full review of the several departments of the School contained in our last report, it will not be necessary to refer in detail to the work of each department during the past year. The work therein so fully commented upon has been pursued in the same manner substantially during the fiscal year just closed.

It is hard to single out any particular department for special mention. In the school rooms, in the manual training department, in the Sunday school and other work of a religious and moral character, in all the varied activities of the Institution, it is a pleasure to be able to say that the year has been marked by faithful and painstaking service on the part of instructors and officers, while among the boys in the School, results in the main gratifying and reasonably satisfactory have been obtained. As heretofore, every effort has been made to relieve as far as possible the monotony of institutional life by affording as much variety in employments, and in suitable, healthful and instructive sports and diversions as seemed possible. The labor of the boys has been utilizied in the making of repairs and improvements upon the premises; it being the belief of the Trustees that the change of employment so secured is very helpful in fitting them for self support upon leaving the School, is conducive to their health and is a potent factor in maintaining a spirit of contentment among them. As illustrative of the method pursued, it may be added that in contracting for the addition to Cottage B. above referred to, provision was made for the employment of some of the boys upon the work. While the State receives a small pecuniary advantage, the boys so employed secure practical and useful instruction which cannot fail to benefit them after leaving the School.

The work of the State Agent continues to be very useful to the State and satisfactory to the board of Trustees. When it is remembered that he makes an average of nearly three visits upon each working day in the year besides attending to a large and increasing correspondence, it will be seen that the office is no sinecure. The Agent is also required to form the acquaintance of each paroled boy, learn his history and acquaint himself with his record in the Institution, to the end that he may judiciously select a home for him, and exercise a wise discretion in advising and counseling with him as he from time to time visits the boy after parole.

The financial showing for the fiscal year is a favorable one. The balance in the treasury at the end of the fiscal year is $6934.05. This balance is some what greater than the average balance for the last few years, but the Trustees have had in mind the necessity of paying in December insurance premiums of a large amount. It has been deemed wise to carry a reasonable amount of insurance, and policies covering the property of the State expire in the month named, the premiums on which amount to $2250.

As in previous years, the Trustees gladly acknowledge their obligation to the Superintendent and other officers and instructors for their faithful, loyal and efficient service in the year just closed. They have not been found wanting in any duty to the State or its wards.

Dated at Meriden, Conn., this 11th day of October, 1905.

REPORT OF THE SUPERINTENDENT

To The Honorable Board of Trustees of the Connecticut School for Boys.

GENTLEMEN:—I herewith submit my report for the fiscal year ended September 30, 1905.

Number of boys in the School Oct. 1, 1904		425
Committed since from—
Hartford County . .	32
New Haven " . .	75
Fairfield " . .	45
New London " . .	11
Middlesex " . .	6
Tolland " . .	1
Litchfield " . .	9
Windham " . .	5
Returned on old commitments .	17
" voluntarily . .	9	210
Total		635
Discharged in various ways . . .		194
Number remaining in the School Sept. 30, 1905		441

Monthly average during the year 431. Average time in the School of boys released, two years and five months.

The new commitments, 184, exceed those of the preceding year by 54, or more than 40 per cent, while the number returned on old commitments shows a loss of 56 per cent. A boy who comes back to the School voluntarily, is permitted to be in the honor grade, if it is found after investigation, that misconduct was not the reason for his leaving the home which was provided for him. He is thus eligible to parole, and another home is secured for him at the earliest opportunity.

During the year the School has been visited by the probation officers of several of the large cities of the state, who have made careful investigation, not only to ascertain the opportunities for education and training which the School affords, but also the means of classification used to separate the degenerate and hardened from those who are here more as the result of the moral evils of their home surroundings than of vicious habits. The large number of new commitments may reasonably be attributed to the favorable reports made by the probation officers, rather than to the increase throughout the state of juvenile criminals. The number who come through misfortune, chiefly through the loss of their natural protectors by death, is large. Of the boys committed during the last year eighteen have lost their fathers, nineteen their mothers, while four are orphans. Eleven others have stepfathers, and ten have stepmothers. making a total of sixty-two, or one third of the entire number committed, who have come from homes destitute of a father's fond care, or a mother's devoted love.

Information relating to the work done during the year to promote good morals, preserve discipline, and improve sanitary conditions, together with reports upon new constructive work, and repairs, has already been given to you at the regular meetings of the Board, and does not require repetition.

The usual statistical tables are appended hereto, and made a part of this report.

The officers associated with me give ample evidence of their faithfulness and loyalty, and to you my sincere thanks are given for your perfect support.

Respectfully submitted,

CHAS. M. WILLIAMS,

Superintendent.

REPORT OF THE STATE AGENT.

To the Trustees of the Connecticut School for Boys.

Gentlemen:—In compliance with the law, I herewith submit my annual report of the department of visitation for the year ended September 30, 1905.

Total number of boys on the visiting list Oct. 1, 1904		352
Number added to the list during the year		173
Total		525
Becoming of age and discharged	176
Recommitted	1
Died	2
Returned for serious fault	14
Returned for relocation	10
Number passing out of my care during the year		203
Total number on the visiting list Oct. 1, 1905		322

The number of boys paroled during the year and added to the visiting list as given above, must not be compared with the school report as the latter includes those discharged by the Courts and otherwise disposed of who are beyond my jurisdiction.

The three hundred and twenty-two boys as above mentioned, are classified as follows:-

Twenty-eight are on the unknown list, three are out of the State, four in the U. S. Army Bands, and the remaining two hundred and eighty-seven boys when last visited were employed at the following occupations.

Rubber M'f'g. Co.	6	Telephone Co.	2
Lock M'f'g. Co.	10	Invalid	1
Tinsmith trade	2	Plumbing trade	2
Coachman	4	Watch M'f'g. Co.	1

Barber Shop	1	Curtain Fixture M'f'g. Co.	1
Clerk	2	Chore Boy	1
Woodturning	1	Stone Mason	1
Brush M'f'g. Co.	1	Woolen Mill	2
Hotel Clerk	4	Electric Light Co.	1

The above tables show:

122 or 43 percent are in factories.

38 " 13 percent are at trades.

18 " 6 percent are students.
13 " 5 percent are out of work.
61 " 21 percent are miscellaneous.

Employment has been found for the one hundred and seventy-three boys paroled during the year, and in the selection of this work great care has been exercised in order that the employment so secured might be congenial and adapted to their years.

It will be noticed that thirty-eight of the boys given in the above table are learning trades, and in my opinion this fact is largely due to the efficient work done in the wood and metal working departments of the school.

Those also on the visiting list who were found to be out of work when visited, were secured employment when possible and am pleased to say that nearly all of the boys so assisted remain at work in the places secured for them.

The report cards of three hundred and twenty two boys remaining on the visiting list October 1, 1905, show at the time of the last report that—278 or 87 percent were doing well.

36 " 11 percent were doubtful.
8 " 2 percent were doing badly.

Relocations.

Boys relocated during the year 13

The relocation of boys is an important feature of the work as it not only gives the boy an opportunity to continue to be self-supporting, but likewise relieves the state of their maintenance.

Forty-two boys have been provided with homes and as formerly these homes have been selected with special reference to advantages that would place the boy in line for social as well as financial advancement. The system of contracts made for boys so placed still prove to be practical, though the selection of the home has been considered of more importance than the money consideration to be secured.

But fourteen of the twenty-four boys returned were for serious fault, making the smallest number of any previous year.

One hundred and eighty-one investigations of homes and places together with seven hundred and thirty-five visits making a total of nine hundred and fifteen visits, were reported in writing and submitted to the Superintendent. Several hours each week have been spent in conference with him to consider questions pertaining to the work.

My correspondence with the boys for the past year has been larger than any previous year; while it entailed a great deal of work, yet it enabled me to give advice and help when most needed.

It may be of interest to note here, that during the past year I have met a large number of boys who were probationers of this school at one time, but are now past their majority. While no statistical tables are kept of those who have reached the age of twenty-one, I am pleased to report that with few exceptions those whom I met were leading useful lives. One young man is a college graduate and a minister: another is editor of a prosperous newspaper in South Dakota: others were employed in factories, and business of various kinds, and all with but few exceptions were a credit to the communities in which they lived. It was also gratifying to note the interest they take in this school after their many years of absence, and especially so in the kindly feeling expressed for the Superintendent and officers of the school.

FINANCIAL STATEMENT.

Salary.	$1200.00
Traveling expenses	790.07
Total	$1990.07

In closing this report I desire to thank the Superintendent and officers of the School for their kindly interest in this department, also the many friends throughout the state who have assisted me in various ways in my work, and to the Hon. Board of Trustees for their confidence and advice.

Respectfully submitted
JOHN H. PARISH,
State Agent.

REPORT OF THE PHYSICIAN.

To the Superintendent of the Connecticut School for Boys.

I herewith submit my report for the past year:—

There has been nothing unusual in the way of diseases at the School with the exception of a few cases of diptheria and a mild epidemic of tonsilitis. The origin of these cases was traced to a drain which seemed to be defective. This was immediately rendered sanitary.

Some boys who had a predisposition to tubercular trouble have been very successfully treated by means of the open air method. The new contagious hospital and the main hospital, which are under the direct supervision of a trained nurse, make peculiarly good places for the successful treatment of the boys at this Institution.

Respectfully submitted,

HAROLD A. MEEKS, M. D.

REPORT OF THE SUPERVISOR OF MANUAL TRAINING.

To the Superintendent of the Connecticut School for Boys.

The department of manual training now in its sixth year of activity, is in most respects following the plans outlined in last year's report. That report was so general and comprehensive that the following condensed description of the equipment and outline of the work is appropriate for this issue.

The mechanical drawing and all the wood work are taught in one room 34 ft. wide by 42 ft. long, well lighted and ventilated. For Sloyd and general bench work we have twenty benches each equipped with a set of tools, for wood turning eight F. E. Reed lathes and one eight foot Clement lathe, each supplied with a set of wood turning tools. For general work a demonstration bench with its complement of tools, a 36 in. band saw, Fox trimmer, an iron vise, an anvil, a scroll saw and a cabinet of special tools to be used by permission from the instructor.

Power is supplied by a ten H. P. General Electric motor, and, to a small extent, by a belt from the main shaft driven by the School engine in the basement.

The Forging classes enjoy a brick building by themselves, with blower, exhaust fan, twelve Sturtevant down draft forges, anvils, hand tools, a drill, speed lathe, rod cutter, with benches, vises etc., making a very good equipment for classes of twelve at a time. Power is obtained from a seven and one half H. P. Sturtevant motor.

The course of study is embraced in three terms of five months each. The time for each class period is ninety minutes. Three classes per day are taught on all school days, and one on Saturday mornings.

The number of pupils in this department during the past year was, in Sloyd and bench work one hundred and twenty, wood turning forty eight, forging forty eight; total two hundred and sixteen.

The first month in every term is devoted to mechanical drawing. The importance of this was explained in my last report. The forging class of twelve assembles in the manual training room with the Sloyd class of twenty and turning class of eight making forty pupils in a room designed to accomodate twenty eight. This crowding is unavoidable at present, but it may be wise to state, we think the growth of this work will lead to a future necessity for more space.

The models used in the Sloyd and bench work were practically the same as during the previous year. In the turning quite a departure was made by introducing thirty-five new models in face turning. The enthusiasm aroused and the quality of work done indicate that further experiments along this line may be profitable.

With the exception of gouges, the turning tools as they wear out are being replaced by tools made by boys in the forging classes. During the year a full set of each, of parting tools ¼ in., ¾ in., and 1 in. chisels, and a set of round nose tools were supplied in this way.

The forging classes followed the usual Tech. course and in addition to this, and the tools made for the turning class, made a set of hand punches and some other blacksmith tools for future use.

The spirit of voluntary effort which has always characterized the work in this department is continued. The enthusiasm of a boy in making whistles, guns, kites and boats is commendable. The same energy, transformed in our classes, leads to persistent effort and productive labor.

What we produce in finished articles in wood, iron and steel, is of interest only as it has led toward systematic development of the boys. From the making of a simple toy to the forging, hardening, tempering and finishing a steel tool is a long journey for a boy to make in fifteen months. Not all accomplish it. All are benefitted by trying. If a habit of willing, intelligent, persistent effort in profitable employment can be formed during the short time they are with us, our boys have a hopeful future before them. This is our aim, and the reports of our State Agent and my own observation show that an increasing number learn that labor is not always irksome, and that they willingly take up the work which is the price of respectable citizenship.

Respectfully submitted,

FRED S. HITCHCOCK,

Supervisor.

THE SCHOOL AND IT'S METHODS.

The Connecticut School for Boys, for the delinquent and wayward, is beautifully located on a high elevation of land in the city of Meriden, a thriving manufacturing city with a population of 28,000 inhabitants situated on the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railway, midway between the cities of Hartford and New Haven. The buildings of the Institution are less than a half mile from the center of the city and are only ten minutes walk from the railroad station.

The farm belonging to the Institution lies in the rear of the buildings, and originally contained one hundred and ninety-five acres of land, one hundred acres of which are comparatively level, and well adapted to the raising of small fruits and garden vegetables, for which purpose it has already been largely appropriated. The remainder of the land is somewhat broken, a portion being covered with a thick growth of small timber, while the remainder furnishes good pasturage for the stock. A living stream of pure water runs through the farm near the middle.

The buildings of the Institution are mostly of brick and are well constructed. They consist of one central building, five cottage buildings, a church edifice, a large boiler and coal house, an ice-house, a bakery, a large hay and cow barn, a horse barn and carriage shed, cattle sheds, wood house, etc.

The main or central building fronts the east, is three hundred feet long by fifty feet deep, the central portion being four stories high above the basement, the wings on either sides being three stories high. Attached to the rear of the main building, on the west, is also a wing one hundred and twenty feet long by forty feet wide, which is three stories high above the basement. In the basement story of the main building are located the kitchen, laundry, engine room, six store rooms, milk room, two large playrooms, two bath rooms, and two rooms for storage. The kitchen is furnished with four large steam kettles for cooking purposes, the steam being supplied from the boiler at the boiler house.

The bakery and the bread room are conveniently connected with the kitchen, and under the supervision of a practical baker.

The laundry is supplied with washing machines of modern construction, and a large mangle. The accomodations for drying clothes by steam are ample.

The engine room contains an engine of fifteen horse power. The power is used in running the machinery of the laundry; also for running eight sewing machines and the printing press.

There are two play rooms, one for each division of the School, which are nicely furnished with settees sufficient to seat all the boys, and the rooms are pleasantly decorated with pictures of various kinds, and are very well supplied with newspapers and magazines. These rooms furnish a pleasant place for the boys who desire to spend a portion of their play time in reading or in innocent games.

The bath rooms are supplied with a shower bath. By the aid of steam the shower can be made of any desired temperature. The accomodations are so ample that all the boys can be thoroughly bathed in thirty minutes. The rooms are well provided with looking glasses, combs and brushes and conveniences for obtaining cool drinking water at all times.

The first story of the main building above the basement contains one general office, private office for the Superintendent, a reception room, a library room, two large school rooms with a seating capacity for one hundred boys each, two large wardrobe rooms for boys' Sunday clothing, three suites of rooms for officers' use, private dining room and kitchen for the Superintendent's family, a large dining room and kitchen for the officers of the Institution, two large dining rooms with a seating capacity for 225 boys, together with numerous closets, pantries, halls, etc.

The second story contains parlors and sitting rooms, bed chambers and closets for the Superintendent's family, six rooms for officers, four large shop rooms and two sleeping halls.

The sleeping halls have a capacity for comfortably lodging two hundred and fifty boys. The halls extend to the top of the building, and are sufficiently high to admit of two corridors above the main floor. The halls are light and pleasant, with good ventilation. They are furnished with single bedsteads, good mattresses, feather pillows, and plenty of bedding adapted to the season. The halls are also provided with six closets, conveniently located, and with hydrants from which good drinking water can be obtained at all times. A night watchman looks carefully after the wants of the boys during sleeping hours.

The third story, in the centre and end wings, contains fifteen rooms, which are used for guest chambers and sleeping rooms for officers of the Institution. In the rear wing of this story there is a shop, where boys not otherwise employed may work at cane-seating chairs. The shoe shop is also on this floor.

The fourth story of the central portion of the building is used for hospital purposes, with rooms for the nurses, etc. The hospital contains nine wards, and is provided with hot and cold water, and all conveniences necessary for making the sick comfortable.

In the rear of the main building there are two yards, surrounded by a high fence, in which the boys have ample time for exercise and play. There is also a yard of three acres of ground containing a pleasant grove of chestnut and oak trees, surrounded by a neat picket fence, five feet high where the boys are often permitted to play, and where, in the summer time, they enjoy their holiday sports. The grounds surrounding the building are tastefully laid out and are well set with ornamental shrubs and flowers. The boys in the main building, or Congregate Department of the School, number about two hundred.

Five cottages have been built, that very comfortably accommodate fifty boys each. They are built of brick, are three stories high above the basement, and cost about $16,000 each. The basement contains a large play room, a room for storage, two bath rooms and a fruit cellar. All the basement rooms are well lighted and warmed, where heat is needed.

The first story contains a large school room handsomely seated and furnished, officers' private rooms, a bath room, reception room, two dining rooms, a kitchen and pantry and two halls.

The second story contains a sleeping hall for twenty boys, hospital room, teacher's room, bath room, room for boys' Sunday clothing, a store room for bedding, etc., and a large shop room.

The third story contains a sleeping hall for thirty boys, a bath room and a store room for bedding.

The buildings are finished in hard wood, and well furnished in every department, and lighted with gas, supplied with water from the city reservoir, and warmed by steam.

The buildings differ, architecturally, in their outside appearance, but are substantially the same in their interior arrangements. Each cottage is supervised by a gentleman and his wife, and one lady teacher. They are conducted on what is known as the Open, or Family Plan, the boys being held in their places by kindness and home influences, instead of the more arbitrary appliances of bolts and bars, and high fences.

The Chapel edifice is a beautiful structure, with a seating capacity of five hundred boys. It contains a large platform with convenient side rooms which afford excellent facilities for giving concerts and other appropriate entertainments. A piano stands on the platform. The Chapel was erected at a cost of about $15,000.

The boiler house is built of brick and stone, and contains three boilers of seventy-five horse power each, a receiving tank, force pumps and apparatus necessary to supply the main building with steam sufficient to warm them well and drive all the machinery, besides furnishing storage capacity for two hundred tons of coal.

The farm buildings are commodious, and afford storage for all the carriages and small implements necessary for the farm and use of the Institution. The main barn is of brick slate roofed, eighty-four feet in length by forty-two feet in width, and is three stories high. The lower or ground floor is used as a manure cellar and for storing the winter supply of vegetables, the two being separated by a heavy cemented wall of stone. The capacity of these is about forty cords of manure and 5,000 bushels of vegetables. The middle story contains stalls for 24 cows, and each stall is provided with running water and every convenience necessary for the cleanliness and comfort of the stock. There are also two rooms for such stock as need seclusion. The third story contains the driving floor, where, on either side, the hay and fodder, as well as the grain, are stored. The building is capable of storing one hundred tons of hay, and is in all respects a model of convenience and economy of labor. Situated in one corner of the barn and extending from the ground floor to a height of 26 feet is the silo, with a capacity of 112 tons. There is also attached to the main barn a shed fifty-four by twenty feet, which furnishes additional stalls for cattle, as well as protection for the spring water with which the stock is supplied. Another building thirty-three by twenty feet is used also for storing farm implements and machinery. The horse barn, which stands near the main barn, is thirty feet in length by twenty-four feet in width, conveniently divided into stabling, a harness room, and a lodging room for the hostler, while above there is ample room for bedding, hay and other feed.

WATER SUPPLY.

The Institution is supplied with water from two sources. The water of a never failing spring, one mile and a quarter away, owned by the Institution, is connected by a three-inch pipe to the buildings and furnishes sufficient for cooking and drinking purposes; also all needed water for the barns and for irrigation at various points upon the farm. For the boilers, laundry, closets, and all general purposes the supply is obtained from the city water works. The pressure of the water is about eighty-five pounds, and is sufficient to force the water to any part of the building in case of fire. The Institution has seventeen convenient hydrants and hose, that may be used should the necessity for their use occur.

GAS.

The Institution is supplied with gas from the city gas works.

INDUSTRIES.

Various industries are represented in the institution which give employment to over four hundred boys. In the tailor shop where the clothing worn by the boys is made and repaired, fourteen boys are employed. In the printing office from eighteen to twenty boys are engaged in learning a useful trade. Six chair shops furnish employment to a number of boys, cane-seating chairs. The shoe shop gives employment to a small class. The farm and garden in the summer time, call for a class of about thirty boys; in the winter a small class cares for the stock and does the necessary work about the premises. The laundry, dining rooms, kitchen, sleeping halls, etc., all require classes of from six to ten boys each.

In the manual training department, daily instruction is given to one hundred and eight boys.

FOOD

While the dietary of the Institution does not embrace the variety ordinarily found on the table of well-to-do people, the quality of the food daily placed before the boys could be no better. The bread is made from the best grades of white flower, the meats used are of the best quality, and the vegetables are supplied abundantly from the Institution gardens and embrace a full variety of such kinds as are found in the best market gardens. Coffee is furnished for breakfast and supper, for which all the milk from the Institution dairy is used, averaging from one hundred to two hundred quarts daily. Once a week a bountiful dinner of fish, or fish chowder is given. The tables are daily supplied with butter or syrup, and on Sunday pies are given for dinner, and cakes for supper. On Thanksgiving day a bountiful turkey dinner is furnished, and on all other holidays the tables are spread with many of the delicacies of the season. The boys are allowed all they want to eat at every meal, and no boy need leave the table hungry. The tables are nicely covered with white oilcloth and are spread with porcelain ware, silver plated knives, forks and spoons. Good manners are taught and required at meal time.

CLOTHING.

The boys of the Institution are clothed in the best quality of all-wool gray cloth for pantaloons, and dark indigo blue army goods for jackets. Heavy Amoskeag Hickory is used for shirting; their caps are made to order from blue cloth and their shoes and stockings are of good quality. They dress, in summer, in lighter goods according to the season.

RECREATION.

The greater part of the holidays is devoted to recreation and play. Portions of each week day, that will equal at least two hours of time, are given for play. On Saturday afternoons, when the weather is suitable, the boys go to the ball grounds in an open field of many acres, where they enjoy full freedom in playing ball or such games as may suit their taste best. Concerts and exhibitions are given for the benefit of the boys in our chapel.

RELIGIOUS AND MORAL INSTRUCTION.

Two services are held in the chapel each Sunday: Sunday School in the morning and preaching in the afternoon, and are conducted by our own chaplain.

We use our own lesson leaves, following the "International Lesson" plan in the Sunday School. These lessons, with the explanations, prayers, responsive exercises and music make a very interesting and profitable service.

The Sisters of Mercy instruct the Catholic boys of the School an hour each alternate Sunday, and priests are in attendance for mass once in two weeks.

Devotional exercises are held morning and evening each day of the week, and grace is said before all meals.

There is a moral review every evening, at which time a record is made in a book, kept for the purpose, of every boy's conduct during the day. These records determine a boy's standing in the School at all times.

SCHOOL.

The boys in the congregate department attend school three hours each week day, ten months in the year. The cottage boys attend school three and one half hours each week day except Saturday for the same number of months.

The School embraces nine grades or divisions, which give every boy the opportunity to attend a grade adapted to his scholarship, and, as a rule, substantial and praiseworthy progress is made in study. Much attention is given to the subjects of reading, writing, spelling and arithmetic. Any boy with an average mind, can, while at the School, obtain an education that will fit him to transact the ordinary business of life.

MUSIC.

Much attention is given to music, both vocal and instrumental. All the boys are taught vocal music, and about forty boys are under constant training in instrumental or band music. Great proficiency is made in both departments.

THE BAND.

About forty boys are under instruction several hours each day. They are divided into three classes, according to ability. The object of practice, it matters not in what profession or calling, should be the cultivation of the highest possible degree of perfection. The pursuance of a uniform system of instruction each day is closely adhered to. When a boy overcomes technical difficulties and learns to apply what he has learned correctly, he feels a sense of mastery in the achievement of that knowledge. The boys have a fine band room for practice, also a library of musical literature, and the leading band journals every month. The instructions given the boys will be of lasting benefit to them after leaving the School.

SENTENCE.

Boys between the ages of seven and sixteen years can be sent to the School during minority by any court of record in the State. Parents or guardians may secure the admission of their sons or wards without process, by paying three dollars per week, quarterly in advance, for their board.

DISCHARGES.

Boys are dismissed on probation after they obtain the "Honor Grade," and this grade, by uniform good conduct, can be attained in one year after entering the School. By indifferent or bad conduct, promotions are lost, and, as a result, the time of a boy to remain in the School is lengthened.

The Board of Trustees has discretionary power to dismiss any boy from the Institution whenever the interest of the School or the boy will be promoted by such dismissal.

BY-LAWS.

Any person desiring a copy of the by-laws of the School will receive the same on application.

FORM OF INDENTURE

ADOPTED BY THE TRUSTEES.

To the Trustees of the Connecticut School for Boys.

I hereby request that the boy named received as indentured, according to the law to the Connecticut School for Boys, at MERIDEN, and I hereby bind myself and agree to the following conditions, viz:

The price of board, education, training, and clothing for said boy shall be at the rate of THREE DOLLARS per week, payable quarterly, in advance, and the said is bound to remain at the Institution for the term of months, entitled to the same supervision, medical treatment, support and education, and subject to the same regulations, employment and restraint as all other inmates of said School.

(Signed)

CIRCULAR OF INFORMATION

TO PARENTS AND GUARDIANS.

We take the pleasure of informing you that your was this day duly received at this Institution, here to remain during his minority, or until otherwise discharged in accordance with the rules of this School. Any boy, by uniform good conduct, can reach his "Honor Grade" in one year from the time he enters the School. He is then given a probationary discharge to go to his home, where he will be permitted to remain as long as he does well. If his conduct in the School is not good, the time for his receiving his probationary discharge will be increased. For further information, it is proper to state that the Institution is not a prison, but a school for detention and reform, where the inmates receive such instruction and training as are best adapted to form and perpetuate a virtuous character, to establish habits of industry, and to advance them in those branches of knowledge which are taught in the Common Schools of the State. They are provided with a home in every way pleasant and comfortable, are furnished with steady employment, of a kind that will aid them in earning an honest living after they leave the School. They have appropriate seasons for recreation and play, are well fed and clothed, and, when sick, have the best of care and medical attendance. They attend school regularly six days of the week, are taught by efficient and experienced teachers, and on Sunday enjoy the privileges of the Sunday School and regular Chapel service, over which our regular Chaplain presides. The Catholic boys of the School receive one hour of instruction each Sunday from the Sisters of Mercy.

In order to accomplish the wise ends for which this Institution was established, to wit: the reformation of boys intrusted to its care, it will be necessary for them to remain in the School for a sufficient length of time to receive such training and discipline as will serve to reform their evil ways, and to establish in them correct moral principles and habits of industry.

Applications for the discharge of boys from the Institution are frequently made in a short time after their commitment, but of course these applications are not entertained. Experience has taught the management that the best interests of the School are promoted by treating the boys alike, and by requiring all to procure their "Honor Badge" before leaving the School. If there is a deviation from the rule in a single case, every other boy has the right to ask for the same deviation in his case, and the Institution would lose its reformatory character.

Parents, guardians and other near friends are permitted to visit the boys on the first Wednesday of each month, at which time no pains will be spared in giving all information sought for in relation to the standing of any boy in the School.

The boys are permitted to write to their friends once a month, and the friends are allowed to write to the boys at their pleasure. In case of the serious illness of any boy, his friends will at once be advised of his condition.

GENERAL STATUTES.

RELATING TO THE CONNECTICUT SCHOOL FOR BOYS, MERIDEN.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives in General Assembly convened.

G. S. 1902. §2817.—The Connecticut school for boys at Meriden shall remain as established.

G. S. 1902 §2818.—Its government shall be vested in a board of twelve trustees, to be appointed by the senate, one from each county, and four from the vicinity of the institution. During each regular session of the general assembly, the senate shall appoint six trustees, who shall hold office for four years from the first day of July following their appointment. The governor may fill any vacancy which occurs when the general assembly is not in session, until its next regular session.

G. S. 1902. §2819.—The board of trustees shall manage said school according to law; adopt rules for its management and the maintenance of strict discipline therein; provide instruction in religion, morality, and useful knowledge, and in some regular course of labor for the inmates; bind them out, discharge, or remand them; appoint a superintendent, not of their number, and other officers, whom they may remove for cause; prescribe their duties and compensation; adjust and certify all claims and accounts against said school; appoint as treasurer a member of said board, who shall give a bond to the state in such sum, not less than five thousand dollars, as the trustees shall require, conditioned for the faithful performance of his duties, and who shall pay all claims against said school after the same have been properly certified; and said board shall annually report under oath to the governor the condition and rules of the school.

G. S. 1902. §2820.—The trustees shall not borrow money for the use of the school upon the credit of the state, nor make any expenditures thereon, beyond appropriations previously made by the general assembly, except from funds on hand.

G. S. 1902. §2821.—The superintendent shall reside at the school; have the charge and custody of the inmates and property; keep accounts of all receipts and expenditures of the school and of all its property in such manner as the trustees may require; hold all books and papers open to their inspection; and, before he enters upon the duties of his office, give a bond to the state in such sum, not less than five thousand dollars, as the trustees shall require, conditioned that he shall faithfully account for all property received by him as superintendent, and faithfully perform all the duties incumbent on him as such.

G. S. 1902. §2822.—The superintendent shall render his account of all the receipts and expenses of said school, on the thirty-first day of March in each year, to the comptroller, the same having been first examined and adjusted by the trustees, and the balance on hand shall be the property of the state, and such part thereof as the comptroller may direct shall be paid into the treasury.

G. S. 1902. §2823—No court or justice of the peace shall commit any child under sixteen years of age as vicious, truant, or incorrigible, to any jail, almshouse, or workhouse. When any boy under the age of sixteen years shall be convicted of any crime or misdemeanor punishable by fine or imprisonment, other than imprisonment for life, the court or justice of the peace, as the case may be, may commit him to the Connecticut school for boys, to remain until he shall arrive at the age of twenty-one years unless sooner discharge by the board of trustees. The judges of the criminal and police courts of the state, and justices of the peace, may commit to the Connecticut school for boys: first, any boy under sixteen years of age, who may be liable to punishment by imprisonment under any existing law of the state, or any law that may be enacted and in force in the state; second with the consent of his parent or guardian, any boy under sixteen years of age, against whom any charge of commiting any crime or misdemeanor shall have been made, the punishment of which, on conviction, would be confinement in jail or prison; third, any boy under sixteen years of age who is destitute of a suitable home and adequate means of obtaining an honest living, and who is in danger of being brought up, or is brought up, to lead an idle or vicious life; fourth, any boy under sixteen years of age, who is incorrigible, or habitually disregards the commands of his father or mother, or guardian, or leads a vagrant life, or resorts to immoral places or practices, or neglects or refuses to perform labor suitable to his years and condition, or to attend school.

G. S. 1902 §2824, AS AMENDED 1903.—No boy under ten years of age shall be committed to the Connecticut school for boys except upon conviction of an offense for which the punishment is imprisonment in the state prison or in a county jail.

G. S. 1902. §2825.—The Connecticut school for boys may be used under the authority of the United States for the confinement of any boy over the age of ten years and under the age of sixteen years, convicted in the United States court for the district of Connecticut of any crime or misdemeanor punishable by fine or imprisonment, other than imprisonment for life, who shall be committed to said school until he shall arrive at the age of twenty-one years, unless sooner discharged by the board of trustees of said school; but the expense of supporting and confining any boy so committed shall be paid by the United States.

G. S. 1902 §2826.—Every boy sent to the Connecticut school for boys shall remain until he is twenty-one years of age, unless sooner discharged or bound as an apprentice; but no boy shall be retained after the superintendent shall have reported him fully reformed.

G. S. 1902. §2827.—When there shall be as large a number of boys in said school as can be properly accomodated, the president of the board of trustees shall give notice to the criminal and police courts of the fact; and thereafter no boys shall be sent to the school by the said courts, until notice shall be given them, by the president of the board, that more can be received.

G. S. 1902. §2828.—The trustees shall have full power to place any boy committed to said school during minority, at such employment, and cause him to be instructed in such branches of useful knowledge as may be suitable to his age and capacity; and they may with the consent of any such boy, or his parent, or guardians, bind him out as an apprentice during his minority, or for a shorter period, to learn a trade, or to other employment, as in their judgment will tend to his future benefit; and the president of the board shall, for such purpose, have power to execute and deliver, on behalf of the said board, indentures of apprenticeship for any such boy; and such indentures shall have the same force and effect as indentures of apprenticeship executed by his legal guardian, and shall be filed with the records in the office of said school.

G. S. 1902. §2829.—In case any boy so apprenticed shall prove untrustworthy and unreformed, the trustees may, at their discretion, receive such boy into the Connecticut school for boys, to be held in the same manner as before his said apprenticeship, and may thereupon cancel the indentures of such boy. If, in the opinion of the trustees, any boy apprenticed by them shall have an unsuitable home, or if the person to whom such boy is indentured shall become unfit or incapable to properly raise or take care of him, the trustees may at their discretion return such boy to the school.

G. S. 1902. §2830.—When a boy is released from the school (except by indenture, as in §2828), he shall be released on probation, and the board of trustees shall have power to send for and return him to the school when, in the opinion of a majority of the members of said board, the best interest of the boy will be promoted by such return.

G. S. 1902. §2831.—When any boy committed to said school shall have improved in knowledge and behavior sufficiently, in the opinon of the trustees of said school, to qualify him for useful employment elsewhere, they shall as soon as possible place him in a suitable home, with relatives, or others, and cause him to be further instructed and regularly employed in some trade or useful occupation, suited to his age and capacity, until he becomes twenty-one years of age.

G. S. 1902. §2832.—The trustees of said school shall have and exercise full control of the persons and earnings of boys so placed out during their minority, and shall, at least once during every period of six months, obtain, by authorized visitation or inspection, definite and reliable information concerning their general deportment and progress in the occupations they are pursuing, and in general shall exercise in their behalf the care and supervision of guardians. The number and general condition of boys so placed out and cared for shall be embraced in the annual report of the trustees of the school.

G. S. 1902. §2833.—Every person who shall entice or attempt to entice away from said school any boy legally committed to the same, or shall knowingly harbor, conceal, or aid in harboring or concealing, any boy who shall have escaped from said school, shall be fined not more than one hundred dollars; and every sheriff, deputy sheriff, constable, or officer of local police, and any officer or employee of said school, is authorized and directed to arrest any boy who shall have escaped from said school, and return him thereto.

G. S. 1902. §2834.—The superintendent of said school shall present to the comptroller monthly a bill at the rate of three dollars a week for the support of each boy committed to said school, which, if allowed by the comptroller, shall be paid from the state treasury.

G. S. 1902. §2835.—The governor shall appoint in the year 1903, and biennially thereafter, an agent of the Connecticut school for boys, who shall hold office for the term of two years from the first day of July in the year of his appointment. The agent, under the direction and supervision of the board of trustees of said school, shall secure suitable homes and emyloyment for boys released from said school on probation; shall investigate the condition and ability of parents and relations, who petition for the release of boys confined in the school; shall furnish suitable homes and employment to the boys whose release is sought; and shall obtain by personal visitation and investigation, at least once in every six months during their minority, reliable information concerning the conduct of boys released on probation, the occupations they are pursuing, and the suitableness of the homes in which they are living. The agent shall also perform such duties and assist in such work at the school, under the direction of the superintendent, as the trustees may deem necessary and advisable, to give him a personal acquaintance with the boys therein confined. Said agent shall immediately make a detailed written report to the superintendent of all his visitations, and said superintendent shall keep the same on file and lay it before the executive commitee of the board of trustees at its regular meetings. The agent, whenever he finds that the conduct or home surroundings of any boy released on probation are unsatisfactory, shall recommend to the trustees of the school the return of the boy to the school or his removal to a more suitable home. He shall also make, annually, a general report of the number and condition of all boys placed out from the school, which report shall be published with the annual report of the trustees.

G. S. 1902. §2847.—Equal privileges shall be granted to clergymen of all religious denominations to impart religious instruction to the inmates of the Connecticut school for boys * * * * and every reasonable opportunity shall be allowed such clergymen to give such inmates, belonging to their respective denominations, religious and moral instruction; and the trustees of * * * * said institution shall prescribe reasonable times and places, not inconsistent with its proper management, when and where such instruction may be given, which shall be open to all who may choose to attend.

REPORT.

To Governor Henry Roberts and the General Assembly of the State of Connecticut:

In conformity with the Statutes of 1895, requiring an annual report of all Boards and Commissions of the State the Shell-Fish Commissioners have prepared and herewith respectfully submit their report for the year ended September 30th, 1905.

THE COMMISSION.

The members of the Commission are George C. Waldo of Bridgeport, Christian Swartz of South Norwalk, and William J. Atwater of New Haven.

In March, 1905, Mr. A. McClellan Mathewson, who had been for nearly nine years clerk of the Commission, resigned to accept the position of Judge of the City Court of New Haven, and Mr. Frederick L. Perry, for several years Clerk of the New Haven Charities Department, was chosen to fill the vacant place. Mr. Perry is Clerk of Shell-Fisheries. The services of Judge Mathewson were appropriately recognized by a minute of appreciation, spread upon the records. The office of the Commission is in Exchange Building, Chapel Street, New Haven, rooms 301-303. Mr. Charles H. Nichols is employed as engineer.

INTERSTATE COMMISSION.

At the 1905 session of the General Assembly of Connecticut a number of bills affecting the shell-fish interests of the State were presented, but not many were passed. Among those which secured approval was one introduced by Attorney General King, continuing the Interstate Commission appointed by Governor Chamberlain in 1903, for the purpose of effecting, through mutual action with the proper New York authorities, a harmonizing of the prescriptive and antagonistic laws of the two States with reference to shell-fisheries.

Considerable has been done by this Commission in the way of preliminary work, and more final and satisfactory results are expected, but delayed, pending the settlement of suits in progress in the New York courts, in which the title to oyster grounds is involved.

The members of this Commission are ex-Senator Thomas Hamilton of Groton, Chairman; Mr. Alexander Arnott of Manchester, Secretary; Mr. William A. Lewis of Bridgeport, State Inspector of Natural Oyster Grounds; Messrs. Waldo, Swartz and Atwater of the Shell-Fish Commission, and Mr. Henry C. Rowe of New Haven, President of the Oyster Growers' Association of Connecticut.

The name of Mr. Rowe was added to the Commission by Governor Roberts at the request of Attorney General King and of all the other members, in view of his voluntary assistance of the Commission and his extensive acquaintance with and experience in the matters involved in its work. Attorney General King is, ex-officio, a member of the Commission and active in forwarding its operations.

Meetings for organization have been held by the Commission and the co-operation of New York Oyster Growing Associations and interests is reasonably assured. Those members of the New York State Commission, in whose hands especially are the shell-fish interests of the State, have always given, and continue to give, full and active co-operation in the work of the Interstate Commission.

NEW LAWS.

The new and amended laws affecting shellfish interests, passed by the General Assembly of 1905, are shown, with explanatory comments, as follows:

SUBSTITUTE FOR HOUSE BILL NO. 575, CHAPTER 103.

AN ACT AMENDING AN ACT CONCERNING THE TAKING OF OYSTERS IN THE HOUSATONIC RIVER.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives in General Assembly convened:

Section 1. Section 3254 of the General Statutes is hereby amended by striking out the word "tenth" in lines four and five thereof and substituting in lieu thereof the word "twentieth," so that said section as amended shall read as follows: Every person who shall, between the twentieth day of July and the twentieth day of September, gather or take any oysters or shells from any natural oyster bed described in Section 3214, and every person who shall, between the twentieth day of July and the twentieth day of September in any year, gather or take any oysters or shells in the Housatonic river shall be fined not more than fifty dollars, or imprisoned not more than thirty days, or both; provided, that nothing in this section shall be construed to prohibit the gathering or taking of shells or mussels by the use of tongs in said Housatonic river below a line drawn from a stake on the west bank of said river, at Quimber's Neck Point, so-called; and running thence in a northeasterly direction to a stake on the east side of said river. Said stakes shall be located and maintained at said points by the Selectmen of the Town of Strtford, and a certificate of such location by said Selectmen shall be recorded in the office of the Town Clerk of said Town of Stratford.

Sec. 2. Nothing in this act or in Chapters 195 and 196 of the General Statutes of this State and the amendments thereto shall be construed as prohibiting the excavation of material in deepening the channels of navigable waters by work authorized by the United States Government.

Sec. 3. All acts or parts of acts inconsistent herewith are hereby repealed.

Sec. 4. This act shall take effect from its passage.

Approved, May 25, 1905.

This amendment was for the purpose of harmonizing the law with reference to the taking of oysters in the Housatonic River with the law governing the taking of oysters on the natural oyster beds of the State, the closed season upon which had been extended from September 10th to September 20th of each year.

SENATE BILL NO. 42, CHAPTER 165.

AN ACT CONCERNING GRANTS OF OYSTER, CLAM AND MUSSEL GROUND.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives in General Assembly convened:

All grants of oyster, clam, or mussel ground, made by the duly constituted State or Town authorities, which are not in territory that has been designated as natural oyster ground by the General Assembly or by the courts, and which have remained in the possession of the owner or owners for five years, are hereby validated and confirmed: and any proceeding under Sections 3220 or 3265 of the General Statutes must be brought within five years after a grant of oyster, clam or mussel ground is made; otherwise said grant shall become final and the title complete in the owner.

Approved, June 21, 1905.

The above law, passed and approved by the General Assembly of the State of Connecticut at the session of 1901, was omitted from the Revised Statutes by the Committee on Revision, but at the suggestion of Attorney General King and for reasons set forth at considerable length in the Report of the Shell-Fish Commissioners for the year 1904, its re-enactment was asked for and granted at the session of 1905.

SUBSTITUTE FOR SENATE BILL NO. 84, CHAPTER 168.

AN ACT CONCERNING THE DUTIES AND SALARY OF THE INSPECTOR OF NATURAL OYSTER BEDS.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives in General Assembly convened:

Section 1. Section 3238 of the General Statutes is hereby amended by inserting in the seventh line of said section after the word "river" the words "shall detect and prosecute for the illegal taking and carrying away of oysters lawfully planted or cultivated on any private oyster grounds adjoining such natural oyster beds," so that said section as amended shall read as follows: The Shell-Fish Commissioners shall, annually, appoint some person to be Inspector of Natural Oyster Beds, who shall hold office until his successor is appointed and qualified. Said Commissioners may remove him for cause, and appoint his successor. He shall detect and prosecute offenses against the shell-fishery laws relating to the natural oyster beds within the exclusive jurisdiction of the State and in the Housatonic River, shall detect and prosecute for the illegal taking and carrying away of oysters lawfully planted or cultivated on any private oyster grounds adjoining such natural oyster beds, and shall give information thereof to the proper prosecuting officers, and for such purpose he shall have the right to go upon any boat or vessel that is being employed upon said beds, or in said river, and may examine any dredges, tongs, or other tools or machinery used thereon, and he shall have the same powers as other officers to arrest for any violation of said laws, and shall be entitled to the same fees as other officers for making such arrests, in addition to compensation hereinafter provided. He shall report to the Commissioners any violation of Sections 3234, 3236, and 3237, and any displacement of oyster buoys. He shall at his own expense maintain a suitable boat or vessel to be used in the discharge of the duties herein imposed, and shall at all times during such period of the year as said board may prescribe, have said boat or vessel in readiness to investigate any alleged violation of said laws.

Sec. 2. Section 4811 of the General Statutes is hereby amended by striking out the words "to the Inspector of Natural Oyster Beds, at the rate of four hundred dollars per annum" and inserting in lieu thereof the words to the Inspector of Natural Oyster Beds, at the rate of six hundred dollars per annum."

Approved, June 21, 1905.

This enactment enlarges the jurisdiction of the State Inspector of Natural Oyster Beds to the grounds of private owners in State jurisdiction adjoining the "natural oyster beds within the exclusive jurisdiction of the State" and his compensation is increased from $400 to $600 per year.

AN AMENDMENT SUGGESTED.

The law defining the duties of the Shell-Fish Commission in the matter of the buoying of natural oyster beds, reads:

"The Commissioners shall cause those natural or public oyster beds in the exclusive jurisdiction of this State known as the Stratford beds, Fish Island and Roton Point beds, the Bridgeport bed, and the Fairfield bed, to be marked by buoys, which shall be known as State buoys, and by range monuments on the shore, by which the lines can be relocated should any buoys be removed, and shall cause double buoys or a distinctive mark to be placed at any point on the boundary where the line changes in direction, and said buoys shall be maintained by the State. No buoys shall be so set in lines, so run as to include within the natural or public beds any private or designated grounds. Said Commissioners shall not expend for said purpose during any one year, a sum exceeding one-half the amount received for licenses to work on the natural or public beds of the State during the preceding year."

In the case of an insufficient appropriation, an appeal to the Board of Control has always brought relief readily granted upon an explanation of the conditions, and this has been frequently the case with reference to the payments for inspection of mud dumping, in which case it is impossible to calculate in advance the amount of money that may be needful for two years, so uncertain are the conditions. The limitation of the law with regard to the buoying of natural oyster beds to one-half of the amount received for licenses, is necessarily inoperative when, as has been the case in several recent years, the receipts for licenses would not pay the expense of buoying if used entirely for that purpose and the appropriation made and the sums used in those years under the supervision of the Board of Control have had no reference whatever to the limitation of the law.

In the law governing the inspection of mud dumping there is no such limitation, the appointing and paying of inspectors, at a certain rate and under sworn returns, being required without specific limit as to amount; that being governed by the circumstances of each year.

It would seem more consistent if the limitation in the law concerning the cost of buoying were removed and the matter left to the Appropriations Committee and the Board of Control, as it comes now before both of those bodies every year.

THE FINANCIAL REPORT.

The financial report shows taxes collected for the fiscal year 1904-5, $7,895.56. Other receipts, $1,453,79, making a total of $9,349.45. Expenditures aggregating $7,223.81, and mud dumping expenses of $1,685.07. In this showing a number of expenses are found to be larger than last year owing to the fact that more work in the respective lines involved was done during the past year than in the year before, and the expenses in some cases for work done in 1904 were carried into the account of 1905 and the amounts swelled thereby. This is true in the Engineer's Department, the Buoying of Natural Oyster Beds, Repairing Signals, etc. Appropriations are made for two years and the unexpended balances of the first year are carried over into the second, so that for a complete view of the conditions the two years must be taken together. It will be seen that in no case has the Commission exceeded the appropriation and in the total it is well within the limit.

BUOYING THE NATURAL BEDS.

Here again the insufficiency of the amount allowed by the law for the buoying of natural oysted beds is illustrated. The Commission expended $1,001.24 in that work. The receipts from boat licenses were $778. One half of that amount, or $389, would have been far short of the necessities of the situation.

The average cost of buoy setting this year is less than that of last, although about double the number of buoys were set. This is owing chiefly to the better weather which enabled the Engineer to work more expeditiously and so diminished the cost for the hire of steamers, etc. Buoys can not be satisfactorily set in bad weather, but the cost for steamers and for engineering work goes on just the same. The expense for individual buoys is greater than it was some years ago, as the kind used then was found inadequate in staying properties, and the weight of the anchoring stone, the method of its attachment to the buoy, the quality of the body of the buoy, the marking required, etc., have increased the cost, but not unreasonably. No buoys can be found which the General Government would allow to be set in the navigable waters of the Sound, that will long withstand the running down by tugs attached to long tows, or by other vessels which frequently fasten upon and pull them apart or move them out of place, necessitating resetting. That trouble seems unavoidable and is peculiar to the situation. From the beginning the matter of setting buoys on the natural beds has been, and continues to be, largely experimental and while cheap material was used at first its total inadequacy was soon evident. To illustrate the conditions we quote from the report of the Commission for 1896, the year after the law for buoying the natural oyster beds, passed in 1895, had been put in operation. The report says:

"During the present year. owing to unusually violent storms which have carried away the buoys, or through the action of many vessels which run across them continually, where, as in some cases, they lie in the 'traveled highway,' the Commission has been called upon very frequently to reset and replace buoys upon important lines; and although they have not always thought best to answer such calls, yet they have done so in the busy season, and when the preservation of the lines has been essential. This has drawn so heavily upon the funds at the disposal of the Commission that for the current year (1897) there is little remaining and but little buoying can be done unless relief is granted by a larger allowance for the work, or by allowing the limit to be regulated by the necessities of the case, as is the rule with reference to mud dumping, and the preservation of landmarks."

In another part of the same report, referring to the number of buoys (265) set in that year, the Commissioners say:

"Under the law requiring the Commissioners to buoy the natural beds, buoys were set as shown in the following table. This does not show, however, the number of times that the Commisioners were compelled to send out a steamer to set the buoys in line after they had been drawn out by passing vessels or scattered by a storm. The material used in making the buoys this year was the same as that used last, and the anchor stones were stronger, but the buoys did not last nearly as long, in some cases being eaten off by worms in a few days, which is another of the uncertainties incident to the work of buoying the natural beds."

It will be seen that eight or ten years have not changed some of the conditions, although it is possible now to procure buoys that will stand most of the summer storms and which will not be eaten by worms over night.

Since the Commission first took up this work they have caused to be made and set 2,627 buoys at a cost (including steamers employed in resetting, etc.) of $9,918.77, or an average of $3.77 per buoy. It will be seen that the average cost per buoy for last year's work, 336 buoys for $1,001.24, is nearly a dollar per buoy less than the general average, and the quality of the material used has been greatly improved.

MUD DUMPING.

The cost of the inspection of mud dumping during the year has been $1,685.07, or about five times what it cost the State the year before. This means that the users of dredged material in the making of oyster beds took less this year than last and so paid a smaller proportion of the expense of inspection. the material going in most cases to the public dumping places and the expense of inspection being put upon the State. It is impossible to know just what these charges are likely to be and in the last year the Commission has been compelled to go to the Board of Control several times to meet the demands made upon it,for the law requires that the Inspectors shall be employed and paid. The Commision has vainly pointed out, year after year, that this charge does not belong to its expense account legitimately, but that it is a charge against the State which must be met and which is necessary in order to avoid the possible injury by promiscuous dumping of dredged material, in navigable channels. A bill to simplify this matter and save the State the expense thus incurred was successfully squelched in the Legislature some years since. But for the fact that private enterprise has relieved the State of a large part of this outlay in past years the burden of it would have been too noticeable to ignore.

BOAT LICENSES.

The receipts from boat licenses this year are a little more that those of 1904, although the incentive in the oyster set was less than last year. The cost for a license is comparatively small and with any sort of good luck can be easily made up, so that there is a general disposition to take out licenses among oystermen and to be ready for what work the season affords. The effort made to procure an increase in the license fee, last winter, failed, the sentiment against it being very strong.

POLICE AND INSPECTION.

The policing of the private grounds and the inspection of the natural oyster beds, in charge of the State, have been satisfactory so far as is known. The enlarged powers of the State Inspector enable him to cover more territory and to help out in the work of the oyster police. Several arrests have been made for minor and technical offenses, but the parties involved, on appearing before the Commissioners, have etablished their innocence of wrong intent and have been dismissed with a reprimand. No case of a second violation of law has come to the notice of the Commissioners.

Connecticut still holds her supremacy as the great seed ground for oysters, while for rapidly maturing them Rhode Island and New York have locations of exceptional value. Grounds continue to be taken up in both the last named States by enterprising Connecticut men who need additional maturing ground and whose expanding business demands more room.

In this connection it is not out of place to call attention to a movement in the oyster planting business in New York State and some of its more recent complications. Certain "baymen" have, through counsel, protested at the office of the New York Forest, Fish and Game Commission against the granting of leases of oyster grounds to certain parties who have applied for them and who wish to cultivate them after modern methods and with modern machinery. It is argued, on the other hand, that "were the policy of the baymen to prevail New York would eventually become dependent for its oyster supply upon the State of Connecticut, where the more enlightened policy regarding the leasing of lands under water prevails. In 1887 the New York Legislature passed a law for the purpose of stimulating the cultivation of oysters, providing for the sale of all available lands under water fit for shell-fish cultivation, but expressly preserving for the people of the State forever all the natural beds. Under the provisions of this statute large tracts of land were leased and a great impetus was given to the oyster business of the State. By the working of the cultivated areas in proximity to the natural beds the latter were rendered vastly more prolific and remunerative. Lately the legality of a number of leases has been attacked, but the State of New York will doubtless make good the guarantees of its agent, the Forest, Fish and Game Commission."

TAXES.

As the number of tax payers in the oyster business of the State diminishes the payment of the taxes comes in larger sums, but a much smaller number of tax payers pay in the aggregate a larger amount of taxes. In 1891 the Commission collected $6,049.57, from upwards of 350 tax payers. In 1905 about one-half that number of tax payers paid $7,895.66, on a somewhat smaller acreage, showing that a larger proportion of the grounds held are cultivated and therefore taxed at a higher rate.

As usual the Commission held meetings last winter and spring, after the issuing of the tax notices. Every tax payer on the list was notified and opportunities to be heard before the Commission, sitting as a board of relief to revise its own assessments, were given. There were meetings in Greenwich, South Norwalk and New Haven, at which a number of tax payers were present, but complaints were gratifyingly few. The tax payers came to meet the Commissioners in a friendly way, but had very few reductions or adjustments to suggest.

THE SET.

The set this year was scattering and uneven and not at all equal to that of 1904. Still the workers on the natural beds managed to average good wages, even at the low rate commanded by the seed this year in comparison with the prices obtained a year ago. Considerable of the seed of 1904, which was left over, was caught this year and as one-year-olds constituted by far the greater part of the catch. A conservative estimate of the work on the State natural beds for this season places the amount of seed caught at 140,000 bushels, of which 70,000 bushels were bought by one firm of Long Island planters. The prices received for seed in 1904 were exceptionally high and may not soon again be realized. In 1899, the year of "the great set," seed sold very low, but last year the market was bare and the demand constant. This year there was a much less active demand and lower prices ruled even for the best class of seed oysters. The set of 1904 covered the beds of planters as well as the natural beds of the State and this year young oysters were plentiful and the demand slow.

Star fish and drills continue to be heard from, but they are not an active danger and modern appliances have put the planter in possesion of a means of defence against the former which is effectual and sufficient.

NEW GROUNDS.

Something like 650 acres of new grounds have been sold during the past year, while the applications for new grounds "to try" have been large. A number of thousands of acres are thus held, of which any part that is found to be promising will be speedily taken up and occupied after the ascertaining of the fact.

Most of these grounds lie to the eastward of those now cultivated and the taking up of the most available grounds west of Guilford has resulted in experiments along the Guilford shore, and thence as far east as the Rhode Island line, which promise, in some cases, to be productive of good results.

It is argued that grounds on the north shore of the Sound corresponding in many respects to those on the south shore, where oysters grow and flourish, ought to be equally productive and as a matter of theory the case is a good one. All the same, much as it is hoped that the theory will prove sound, the demonstration is awaited before an official opinion is hazarded.

THE AREAS.

The table of areas which supplements the maps is complete in this issue, the New Haven map, in the office of the Commission, having been brought down to the degree of completeness that enables the areas of its lots to be put in with the others. To have put these areas upon the maps would have crowded many of the individual holdings so as to have made them unintelligible and therefore the tables have been substituted, each lot number giving the area which the lot contains. On the maps, which have been brought down to date, where the separate holding contains a number of smaller divisions, these last are marked by a light dotted line while the whole holding is outlined by a heavier line, making it easily distinguishable.

THE SIGNALS.

The repairing of signals will be seen by the financial statement to have been comparatively large this year, but some of the work done was begun last year and carried over when finished into this, thus bringing the expense upon 1905. But the whole amount does not exceed the limit of the appropriation. Nothing was done by the General Assembly last winter in the matter of securing, on the shore front of the State, reservations or parks for the use of the public, and the gradual absorption of the shore for private uses goes steadily on. Were the proposed parks established places for the setting up of permanent signals would be afforded; whereas now there is no certainty about the location of them unless some public building or the cupola of some favorably located country seat affords an available mark. The oyster business is of sufficient importance to require some effort at the establishment of permanent signals and wherever that can be accomplished now, it is done. The annual inspection of signals was made by the Commission on Tuesday, September 26th, at which time the condition of them was declared to be as good as the circumstances would permit. Some signals will require rebuilding next year and some extensive repairs, but the average condition of them, as a whole, is good. Where the Commission can not otherwise procure locations for signals it is authorized to lease grounds for ten years for that purpose and it has held some such leases for many years, generally renewing them without difficulty, as they are mostly in unimportant localities.

THE TABLES.

Examining the tables we find that the processes of combination and elimination in the oyster business still go on. Worthless grounds are abandoned and small ownerships are given up or merged in those of larger and more important holdings. Looking back to the first list of owners of oyster grounds in the State, with their holdings, printed by the Commissioners in their report for 1893, we find 68,686.8 acres of grounds held by 338 different owners. In 1904, only eleven years later, we find 66,658.4 acres held by 180 individuals and companies. The corporations have increased in number rapidly and there is about the same acreage in cultivation, while many of the largest owners have large holdings in Rhode Island and New York, as well as in Connecticut. The list of owners in Connecticut has been cut in two, but the amount of grounds remains practically the same.

In 1893 there were 67 steamers used in the business along the Connecticut shore. Today there are 111 and their combined capacity is 116,000 bushels, to the 69,900 bushels of the steamers of 1893.

There were no boats licensed in 1893 and so no list of the "natural growthers" is obtainable.

Between three and four hundred sailing vessels and boats added to the steamers make a very respectable fleet for the oyster business of Connecticut and during the past year the industry has been a flourishing one, keeping the steamers busy and calling for continual enlargement of facilities.

DIGEST OF DECISIONS.

DIGEST OF DECISIONS.

RIGHTS OF THE PUBLIC.

The term "fisheries" includes oysters and clam fisheries.—Moulton v. Libbey, 37 Me. 472.

Held, that the term "fish," as used in a bond pledging the obligor not to engage in the retail sale of fish, included oysters, and that the bond was violated by his engaging in the retail sale of oysters.—Caswell v. Johnson, 58 Me. 164.

In the absence of statuary restriction, any inhabitant may take shellfish in the waters of the State, below high water mark, and in so doing may dig up the grass or sedge, if necessary.—Allen v. Allen, 19 R. I. 114.

Like other valuable commodities, fish, as well swimming as shellfish, are property, and belong to the nation possessing the country, and, until otherwise appropriated, are public property.—Dunham v. Lamphere, 69 Mass. (3 Gray) 268.

The foregoing authorties abundantly prove the general proposition, that the right of fishing on the soil of another, when overflowed with the tide from the sea or arm of the sea, is a common right. The only doubt that can arise, in cases of this kind, is, whether there is a common right of fishing for shellfish, after the reflux of the tide?

Here the court most expressly recognize the doctrine, that it is a right common to every subject, to enter upon the lands of the plaintiff, betwixt high and low water mark, and to take from thence shellfish, by digging up the soil.—Peck v. Lockwood, 5 Day. 28.

The right of taking shellfish on the land of an individual between high and low water mark is a right common to all, and not exclusive in the owner of the land.—Peck v. Lockwood, 5 Day. 22.

The right of fishery, as well for shellfish as floating fish, on or over the soil of the navigable waters in Eastern New Jersey, is in the State as an incident of sovereignty.—Martin v. Maddell. 18 N. J. Law.

The inhabitants of Oyster Bay Township have the exclusive right to the oyster fishing within that bay, and the town has authority to enact and enforce by-laws in support and protection of that right.—The Martha Anne, Fed. Cas. No. 9, 146.

The fisheries and oyster beds within the limits of the State are the comon property of its citizens, which has never been ceded to the United States, and in the absence of restriction by the United States Constitution the State is entitled to legislate such properties.—(U. S. 1876) McCready v. State of Virginia. 94 U. S. 391.

RIGHTS OF INDIVIDUALS.

Gen. St. c. 133, No. 14, declaring that oysters planted or growing in private grounds shall be the private property of the person leasing the grounds from the State, and that stealing them shall be larceny, though making oysters personal property, and protecting them from theft, does not restrict the lessee's right of disposing of them by contract.—New England Oyster v. McGarvey, 12 R. I. 385.

Oysters planted by an individual in a bed clearly designated and marked out in navigable waters, which are free for all the inhabitants of the State, are the property of the person planting them, who may maintain trespass for removing them.—Metzger v. Post, 44 N. J. Law. 74.

If the salt water ascertained to be a bayou connected with an arm of the Gulf of Mexico does not result from an overflow occasioned by high tides flooding its banks, but, in the first instance, enters an arm of the gulf, and thence passes into the bayou, and is there combined with fresh water derived from other sources, such bayou cannot be considered as an arm of the sea, nor its banks the seashore, subject to the comon right of fishing.—Morgan v. Negodich, 3 South. 636.

One who has planted oysters in a navigable stream, in which other oysters are found cannot recover of one who took the planted oysters.—Shepard v. Leverson, 2 N. J. Law (1 Penning). 369.

A person who plants oysters on the bed of a navigable river below low water mark has not such a property therein as to enable him to maintain trespass against a person taking them away, though the oyster bed should be adjacent to his own shore.—Arnold v. Mundy, 6 N. J. Law (1 Halst). 1.

An indictment will lie for stealing oysters planted in the public or navigable waters of this State, if they are planted in a place where oysters do not grow naturally, and the spot is so designated by stakes or otherwise that the oysters can be readily distinguished from others in the same waters; oysters planted in public waters not being considered as abandoned to the public unless planted or placed where they grow naturally.—State v. Taylor, 27 N. J. Laws (3 Dutch). 117.

The right of fishery in the ocean, in arms of the sea, and in navigable rivers below high water mark, is common to all, and the State only can grant an exclusive right.—Chalker v. Dickinson, 1 Conn. 383; Stannard v. Hubbard, 34 Id. 375.

The right of fishing in navigable waters is free to the citizens of the State.—(Conn. 1811) Lay v. King, 5 Day. 72.

The unorganized public cannot acquire a right of fishery in a natural pond by prescription.—Turner v. Selectmen of Hebron, 61 Conn. 187.

Oysters planted in a bed clearly marked out in tide waters of a bay or arm of the sea, where there are no oysters growing spontaneously at the time, are the property of the person who plants them, and the taking of them by other person is a trespass, for which an action lies.—(1861) Lowndes v. Dickerson, 34 Barb. 586.

The public have a right of navigation and fishery on all streams where the tide ebbs and flows, even though the riparian proprietor's lines cover the place; but they have no right to land fish on private property above high water mark.—Bickel v. Polk, 5 Har. 325.

The grant of Charles I. to Sir Ferdinando Georges of the Province of Maine reserved to "all subjects of our kingdom of England liberty of fishing, as well as in the seas as in the creeks of said province."

Held, since the term "fisheries" includes shellfisheries, the reservation in the grant of the common right of fishing included the taking of clams.—Moulton v. Libbey, 37 Me. 472.

All the inhabitants of the Commonwealth have the right to take shellfish from flats lying between high and low water mark, and within 100 rods of the upland, unless the owner of the flats has a grant of such fishery from the legislature or such occupation as to raise a presumption of such a grant, or actual possession of the flats by building on or inclosing them, so as to exclude the access of boats and vessels.—Lakeman v. Burnham, 73 Mass. 437.

The right of the public to take shellfish from flats between high and low water mark, and within 100 rods of the upland, does not carry with it any right to take the soil, or dead shellfish imbedded therein, except as necessarily adhering to the living shellfish taken.—Porter v. Sheehan, 73 Mass. 435.

The right of taking clams from the flats under tide waters in any town is not impaired by a grant of the flats from the Legislature to the town or from the town to individuals, nor by St. 1841, c. 64, for the protection of the shellfishery in Ipswich. It is a public right, unless restricted by acts of the Legislature or the town or by prescription.—Proctor v. Wells, 103 Mass. 216.

The exclusive right to take oysters in a navigable bay cannot be acquired by prescription.—People v. Lowndes, 55 Hun. 469.

It is a right common to all the citizens of New Jersey to take shellfish from natural beds in the tide waters of that State, and may be enjoyed by them at will, except so far as it is restrained by positive law or by grants from the State to individuals.—Paul v. Hazelton, 37 N. J. Law (8 Vroom). 106.

The oystermen illegally encroach on public clam-fishing grounds does not warrant a clam fisherman in going out and destroying a bed of oysters.—DeGraff v. Truesdale, 10 N. J. Law J. 90.

Laws 1879, c. 384, and Laws 1871, c. 639, Section 3, prohibiting any one from occupying grounds in Hampstead Bay, and from planting oysters therein, without a license, abrogates the common law right to plant oysters.—Abrams v. Johnson, 10 N. Y. St. Rep. 371.

JURISDICTION OF COMMISSION.

Pub. Acts, 1893, c. 110, directs the Shell-Fish Commissioners to mark certain established oyster beds with State buoys, and provides a penalty for displacing such buoys, and that "no buoys shall be set or lines so run as to include within the natural or public beds any private or designated grounds." The act does not purport to amend Gen. St. Sec. 2328, nor to displace or alter existing legislation. Held, that such act did not amend such section, so as to exclude from the natural oyster beds established by such section any ground the Shell-Fish Commissioners may leave out in buoying one of such beds as directed by the act—Cook v. Raymond, 66 Conn. 285.

General Statutes, Section 2326, provides that, upon the application of the oyster ground committe of any town, the Superior Court may appoint a committee to ascertain and locate the natural oyster beds. Held, not to include any portion of Long Island Sound lying south of a coast line established by the act, but that all the area between that line and the south line of the State falls within the exclusive jurisdicion of the State Commissioners of Shell-Fisheries.—In re-application of Darien Oyster Ground Committee. 52 Conn. 63, 64.

Oyster beds. As to designation see White v. Petty, 57 Conn. 580, 581. (The case of Application of Clinton Oyster Ground Committee, 52 Conn. 5, commented on. By the term "designated," as there used, in limiting the jurisdiction of such a committee to grounds not designated to individuals before the Act of 1881 was meant a designation that was perfected by the staking out of the ground.

The present suit was for an injunction against the removing of stakes and the taking of oysters brought from the grounds, before the suit was brought an application had been made to the Superior Court by parties other than the present defendants, for an order for the removal of the stakes and setting aside the designation as void under General Statutes, Section 2324, which application was still pending. Held, to be no reason for not granting the injunction.—White v. Petty, 57 Conn. 578, 579.

Plaintiffs deposited in M. River Cove a boat load of oyster shells. To these shells the germs of oysters floating in these waters attached themselves, and in about two years developed into marketable oysters. Held, that these oysters belonged to plaintiffs, and that they could sue defendants for removing them, and converting them.—Grace v. Willets, 50 N. J. Law (21 Vroom). 414.

Oysters planted by individuals in a bed clearly designated and marked out in a bay or arm of a sea are the property of him who plants them, and trespass lies against any one interfering with them, though such spot is the common fishery of all the inhabitants of the town in which the bay is situated.—Fleet v. Hegeman, 14 Wend. 42.

In order to maintain an action against any person for taking away oysters planted in navigable waters, the plaintiff must show that he has the power of present actual possession, accompanied by a continued assertion of ownership, and by such evidence of the right of possession as will necessarily exclude the right of any other person, as by an inclosure by stakes or similar manner.—Brinckerhoff v. Starkins, 11 Barb. 248.

A party who plants oysters in navigable waters, opposite to the land of another person, does not thereby acquire such a possession of them as will enable him to maintain trespass against the owner of the adjacent land, who takes them away.—Brinckerhoff v. Starkins, 11 Barb. 248.

Oysters planted in a bed clearly marked out in the tide waters of a bay or arm of the sea, where there are no oysters growing spontaneously at the time, are the property of the person who plants them, and the taking of them by another person is a trespass, for which an action lies.—Lowndes v. Dickerson, 34 Barb. 586.

It is indispensable to the existence of a right of property in oysters planted in our navigable waters that the bed shall not interfere with the exercise of the common right of fishing, and, if the oysters planted are mingled with the undistinguishable from others of a natural growth in the public waters, the special right of the person planting them will be thereby lost.—Lowndes v. Dickerson, 34 Barb. 586.

One who has staked out a bed where no oysters are growing, planted oysters therein, and taken measures to protect the young oysters or "spat" may maintain an action against one who takes and converts the same to his own use.—McCarty v. Holman, 22 Hun. 53.

A person has no right to claim oysters as planted by him, at common law, where he fails to show that the grounds were clearly marked and defined, or that no oysters were growing spontaneously at the time of the planting.—Abrahms v. Johnson, 10 N. Y. St. Rp. 371.

The fact that one has planted oysters in navigable waters does not give him the exclusive right to such oysters, in the absence of a showing of his compliance with the statuary provisions relative to the acquisition of private rights to oysters in such waters.—Jones v. Johnson, 6 Tex. Civ. App. 262.

Where a portion of the public waters are leased for a private oyster fishery, no one, unless authorized by the owner, has a right thereon for the purpose of taking quahogs.—State v. Sutton, 2 R. I. 434.

Under Acts 1886, c. 501, only five acres of the waters of the State are allowed to be located for the planting of oysters, and no purchaser can take a valid title to a greater number through the instrumentality of others, nor can a non-resident locate a lot for this purpose, whether he be sole or part owner of any land in this State.—Hess v. Muir, 65 Md. 586.

Under Pub. St. c. 91, Section 99, which makes any person taking oysters without consent of the licensee, from any flats or creeks licensed to another, liable to such licensee in treble damages, where defendant, having a license, planted oysters on flats, but did not remove them during his term, he cannot afterward remove them without the consent of the subsequent licensee.—Keene v. Clifford, 158 Mass. 120.

Complainant was seized of a fishery bounded by a high-water mark. Defendants, being owners of land adjoining, built a stone wall on their own land, abutting on the fishery, in such a manner as to prevent the taking of fish at high water. Held, that an injunction against the continuance of the wall would be refused, it appearing that the wall was necessary to the preservation of the defendants' property from erosion by the water.—Howell v. Robb, 7 N. J. Eq. (3 Halst). 17.

A contract with an oyster-grower to spread shells over certain of his oyster grounds before the opening of the spawning season, having been abandoned, without cause by the contractor. Held, that the oyster grower migh supply himself with crushed stone, and use it for the same purpose, if it was the only suitable material then to be had in the market, and charge the contractor whatever it cost above the market price of the shells.

Expert testimony is admissable in such a case to show what material is suitable for spreading on such oyster ground. The oyster grower having written to the contractor that he had bought, and was buying, crushed stone at the contractor's expense, he letter was held admissable against the contractor to show notice.—Lewis v. Hartford Dredging Co., 68 Conn. 221.

GRANTS BY TOWNS.

Town bounds. The southern boundary of the territorial proprietorship of towns touching Long Island Sound follows high water mark, crossing bays and harbors upon a straight line drawn between points upon opposite shores from one of which objects and movements can be discerned with the naked eye upon the other.

The State owns the shell and floating fisheries outside this line.

The first section of the statute with regard to shell-fisheries (Gen. Stat., Section 2313), which speaks of a certain line between the navigable waters of one town and those of another as running "southerly" from a certain point in the divisional line upon the mainland, must be taken to mean a line running due south.

The second section of the same statute (see now, Section 2312) authorizes a committee appointed by any town for the purpose to designate suitable places "in the navigable waters in such town" for planting or cultivating oysters. Held, that the divisional lines between the navigable waters of one town and those of another were meridional lines, extending south from the termini of the lines separating the territorial proprietorship of the towns.

A statute enacted for the purpose of authorizing the designation of oyster beds by town committees, stated that a straight line drawn in a certain direction from a certain point would strike a point where the navigable waters of two towns named would meet. Held, that this declaration was not to be regarded as an enactment fixing the point as in the divisional line of the towns, and that as mere declaration it was without effect.—Rowe v. Smith, 48 Conn. 447.

General Statutes, Section 2317, authorizes the Shell-Fish

Commissioners to grant individuals "perpetual franchises" in oyster grounds. This seems to indicate that the party to whom a designation is made by a town committee takes a like interest. —Clinton v. Bacon, 56 Conn. 517.

Sess. Laws 1881, c. 160, providing that, on aplication of the Oyster-Ground Committee of any town, the Superior Court may appoint a committee to locate all the natural oyster beds within the boundaries of the town, does not apply to the area within the jurisdiction of the State Commissioners of Shell-Fisheries. —In re Darien Oyster-Ground Committee, 52 Conn. 61.

One claiming an exclusive grant from the Legislature of New Jersey, under the act of 1824, to catch oysters in Raritan Bay, when the tide ebbs and flows, may eject one claiming under the charters of Charles II. to the Duke of York, in 1664 and 1674, which were surrendered by the proprietors to Queen Anne in 1702.—Martin v. Waddell, 41 U. S. (16 Pet). 367.

Where a committee appointed by a town to stake out oyster grounds consist of four members, and one of them, with the consent of two others, staked out ground and planted oysters thereon for himself, such proceeding was valid, since the committee might act by a majority of those qualified to act in a given instance.—Gallup v. Tracey, 25 Conn. 10.

Where one staked out oyster grounds with the consent of the committee appointed by the town, and planted oysters thereon, he acquired a vested right in the oysters so planted; and therefore an action of trespass brought by him for entering on and taking such oysters, founded on Rev. St. 1855, p. 562, Section 43, did not abate by the repeal of said section.—Gallup v. Tracey, 25 Conn. 10.

It is not necessary that the members of a committee appointed by a town for staking out oyster grounds should be notified to meet, or should meet together, before acting.—Gallup v. Tracey, 25 Conn. 10.

The designation by the proper committee of a town of ground for oyster beds between low water mark and navigable waters to a person other than the riparian owner, under Gen. St., Sections 2348, 2349, providing for such designation, is insufficient to deprive the riparian owner of such right.—Prior v. Swartz, 62 Conn. 132.

Rev. St. c. 215, Section 10, provides that, when the owner of land in which there may be any salt water inlet desires to dam the same for an oyster pond, he may apply to the Selectmen of the town, who may take certain action, which, on approval by the town, shall give the right to construct such dam. Held, that, where an application was made by only a part of the proprietors of the land upon an inlet, the applicants were not owners of land in which there was a creek or inlet, within the statute.—Gulf Pond Oyster Co. v. Baldwin, 42 Conn. 255.

Revision 1875, tit. 16, c. 4, Section 1, empowered the Selectmen of East Haven to designate, for oyster culture, ground in a certain part of the navigable waters within the town limits, and those of Orange to designate all the grounds in their town not before designated. Section 2 gave like power to a committee of electors to be appointed in every town. East Haven, at its town meeting in October, 1875, appointed such committee to designate the grounds within its limits, and the committee assumed to designate lands not within the part specified in Section 1. Laws 1877, c. 94c, Section 2, validated and confirmed all designations made by authority of a town through its Selectmen or Oyster-Ground Committee. Held, that such section healed not only the errors of the committee, but the defects in their appointment.—State v. Bassett, 64 Conn. 217.

The harbor of Northport lies within the limits of the town of Huntington, and the town has the right to lease land under the harbor for oyster beds.—Robins v. Ackerly, 24 Hun. 499.

An implied license from the State to use land under water for oyster cultivation is subject to revocation, and is revoked by a notice served upon the licensee by one to whom the State has ceded all its rights. The title to the submerged lands in Huntington Bay passed to the town of Huntington by the Colonial Grants to that town and by the law of New York of May 10, 1888, at least for the purpose of oyster cultivation.—Lowndes v. Huntington, 153 U. S. 616.

POWER OF TOWNS TO REGULATE.

Though every town has the power to make by-laws to regulate the fishery of clams and oysters within its limits, yet a by-law of a town prohibiting all persons, except its own inhabitants, from taking shellfish in a navigable river, within the limits of such town, is void as being in contravention of a common right.—Hayden v. Noyes, 5 Conn. 391.

As to the mode of proceeding by committees to stake out oyster grounds, see Gallup v. Tracy, 25 Conn. 18.

The act of 1878 was enacted solely for the protection of the public right of fishery, and in the absence of any legislative permission to the town to sue, the State is only party to enforce the remedy, if any exists, for its violation.

Acts 1881, p. 104, Sectio 12, providing for the determination of the location and extent of natural oyster beds should not be construed as applying to beds designated to individuals under earlier statutes.—In re Clinton Oyster Ground Comm., 52 Conn. 5.

Under a statute concerning fisheries (Gen. St. tit. 23, c. 2), providing that a committee appointed by a town may designate and stake out for an oyster bed a space not exceedin two acres, but that no natural oyster bed shall be set apart for the above purpose by the committee, and imposing a penalty upon any person who shall take oysters from the place so staked out, held, in a suit for the penalties, (1) that the defendant might show that a place so staked out by the committee was a natural oyster bed; (2) that such designation would be invalidated by the proof of that fact.—Averill v. Hull, 37 Conn. 320.

RIGHTS OF NAVIGATION.

A proprietor of lands adjoining navigable waters has a right to build out wharves or dig channels from his upland beyond low-water mark, so long as he does nothing to interfere with navigation. And this right is not affected by the designation of the ground to another party as an oyster bed, under General Statutes, Sections 2348, 2349.—Prior v. Swartz, 62 Conn. 137-140.

A right to cultivate oysters upon soil excavated for a new channel is held subject to the right of the State and of the United States to cut a channel there if the improvemen of navigation require it.—Lane v. Harbor Commrs., 70 Conn. 685.

The right of fishing in a navigable river is subordinate to the right of navigation.—Lewis v. Keeling, 46 N. C.

A State holds the title to the beds of navigable streams within its boundaries in trust for the public for the purpose of commerce and navigation, the sole control over which is vested by the constitution in congress; and, while the state may grant the use of such river beds to private citizens, such grants are subject to the obligation to suffer the consequences incident to the improvement of navigation on such river under an act of congress, and damages resulting from the prosecution of such improvement can not be recovered from the United States.—Richardson v. United States (U. S. C. C. Va., 1900), 100 F. 714.

The rule that the right of fishery is subordinate to that of navigation does not extend to acts of wantonness in navigation. Thus, where a vessel ran into a net laid in a private fishery and damaged it. Held, that the captain was liable, if upon being warned he could have changed his course without prejudice to the reasonable prosecution of this voyage.—Cob v. Bennett, 75 Pa. St. (25 P. F. Smith). 326.

If a master of a vessel navigating the Potomac, in the usual course of navigation, anchor in the plaintiff's fishing grounds, without malice, for the purpose of taking in the residue of the cargo, and, when required to depart, his not doing so immediately be not attributable to malice, but to a reasonable cause, and he remove his vessel as soon as the circumstances of wind, weather, and tide will permit, he is not liable for damages. But if the defendant, knowingly and without necessity or reasonable commercial purpose, anchor his vessel within the limits of the plaintiff's fishery, so as to interrupt the same, or if the defendant, having so anchored his vessel within the said limits of the plaintiff's, knowingly and without necessity or any reasonable comercial purpose, remain within the same, so as to interrupt the plaintiff's fishery, the plaintiff is entitled to recover.—Mason v. Mansfield, Fed. Cas. No. 9, 243 (4 Cranch, C. C. 580).

While the right or private fishery in a navigable stream is subordinate to the rights of navigation, yet the latter right must be exercised fairly and in good faith; and, if the master of the vessel designedly injure a fisherman's net by running through it, he will be liable to damages.—Post v. Munn, 4 N. J. Law (1 Southardy 61).

DISPUTED BOUNDARIES.

The act of 1879 (Sess. Laws of 1879, chap. 70, Section 3; see, now, Gen. Stat., Section 2332) provides that in the case of oyster grounds in Long Island Sound, designated by the proper authorities either by special map or by reference to, one in the Town Clerk's office, where adjoining owners shall disagree as to their dividing line, either may apply to a judge of the Superior Court, who shall appoint a surveyor who shall trace and mark out the line according to such map. Held, that the statute does not empower the surveyor, in the absence of the parties, upon his own motion, either to establish new monuments, change courses or vary distances. If neither the monuments nor the lines constituting the map exist as described, there is, in the eye of the law, no map.

Also held, that the statute proceeds upon the idea that the plaintiff and defendant are adjoining owners; that a line designated upon a map and sought for on the Sound separated them. When the court finds the jurisdictional averment of adjoining ownership not proven the petition must be dismissed.—Rowe v. Ludington, 51 Conn. 188.

NATURAL GROUND.

Ground under navigable water, where there are no oyster rocks or masses of oysters, but where oysters grow naturally, though not in such quantities as to induce the public to resort thither, does not constitute a natural oyser bed, within the meaning of Code, Section 3390, giving any citizen the right to take oysters from any natural oyster bed.—State v. Willis, 104 N. C. 764.

Act April 14, 1881, placed all shell-fisheries within the area described under the exclusive jurisdiction of the State, and empowered the Commissioners of Shell-Fisheries to grant franchises for cultivating shellfish therein; placed all shellfisheries not within such area within the jurisdiction of the towns in which they are located, and authorized the towns to grant franchises for cultivating shellfish within the latter area; provided for the record of future grants that might be made by the State or towns; forbade all future grants of franchises in any natural oyster or clam bed; validated all designations and transfers of oyster grounds previously made, except designations made of natural oyster beds, which remained void, and directed such commissioners to cause a survey to be made of all natural oyster beds within the area of the State jurisdiction, and to locate and delineate such natural beds on such map, and report to the General Assembly. Act April 23, 1885 (Pub. Acts 1885, p. 525), accepted and established the locations and designations under State jurisdiction made by such commisioners, specifying the boundary of each natural bed. Held that, in an action for trespass on plaintiffs oyster bed, claimed under a designation made prior to Act April 14, 1881, such statutes did not prevent proving by parol evidence the fact that the ground designated was ,at the time of designation, a natural oyster bed.—Cook v. Raymond, 66 Conn. 285.

The mode of questioning the title of a claimant to a designated natural oyster bed is not limited to a proceeding, under Gen. St., Section 2356, for the removal of stakes from an oyster bed which has been improperly staked out in the absence of anything in such section preventing the public from exercising its right of fishing on natural oyster beds which individuals attempt to appropriate under a pretended designation; but it may be done by defendant in an action by such claimant in the nature of trespass for unlawfully entering on plaintiff's oyster ground, and taking and carrying away oysters and clams.—Cook v. Raymond, 66 Conn. 285.

Gen. St., Section 2330, provides that the court, when ordering the removal of stakes inclosing on oyster bed improperly staked, shall, if oysters have been planted or improvements made in good faith before the petition for removal was brought, allow a reasonable time for the removal of such oysters and improvements. Held, that, in an action of trespass for unlawfully entering on plaintiff's oyster ground, and taking and carrying away oysters and clams, where it appears that such ground is a natural oyster bed, and that plaintiff in good faith planted some of the oysters taken by defendant, plaintiff cannot recover the value of such oysters.—Cook v. Raymond, 66 Conn. 285.

Gen. St., Section 2328, particularly enumerates the locations and descriptions of the natural oyster beds which are under State jurisdiction, and Section 2358 prohibits taking oysters from places designated to private parties for their cultivation. Held, that in a defense to a criminal prosecution for taking oysters from a place which has been designated to private parties, the only evidence that such place is a natural bed, a grant of which would be invalid, is that it is embrased in the locations and descriptions contained in the statute enumerating the natural oyster beds under the jurisdiction of the State.—State v. Nash, 62 Conn. 47.

The proceedings provided by the act of 1870 (Gen. St., p. 215, Section 11) for throwing open to the public ground claimed to be a natural oyster bed, when designated to an individual, and inclosed by him for planting oysters, are not applicable where the ground so designated and inclosed is a natural clam bed, the act of 1878, prohibiting such setting off and staking of a natural clam bed, providing no specific penalty or mode of redress, the recognition of the fact that clams and oysters are distinct species of shellfish being apparent from the discrimination made by the Legislature between the statutory provisions for the protection of oysters, and those for the protection of clams.—Town of Clinton v. Buell, 55 Conn. 263 .

In a suit to restrain defendants from interfering with complainants oyster grounds, the report of a committee appointed under Laws 1880-81, p. 104, Section 12, to locate and describe all natural oyster beds in a certain town, which report was dated and recorded in March, 1883, and which does not include grounds in the town designated to complainant, under Rev. St. 1875, p. 214, Section 3, in 1881, before the act of 1881 became of force, but which she did not appropriate until more than a year thereafter, is admissable to rebut evidence that the grounds were in 1886 and for ten years before, natural oyster grounds; it appearing that the committee probably explored the waters within its jurisdiction before complainant appropriated her grounds, when it was the committee's duty to investigate their condition.—White v. Petty, 57 Conn. 576.

Defendants in a suit to restrain interference with an oyster bed cannot complain of a finding of the court that the finding of a committee appointed under Laws 1881, p. 104, Section 12, to locate and describe all natural oyster beds, in a certain town, could be treated as res adjudicata against a private right, as they have only a right in common with the public.—White v. Petty, 57 Conn. 576.

Evidence of pendency of a suit against complainant under Rev. St. 1875, p. 215, Section 11, providing for actions to remove stakes improperly inclosing natural oyster beds, is not admissable in a suit to restrain interference with complainant's oyster bed, as the question of title is not involved in the former suit.—White v. Petty, 57 Conn. 576.

In an action to recover for oysters and clams taken from a bed alleged to be owned by the plaintiff, the defendant justified upon the ground that the designation was void, because the ground so designated was then a natural oyster bed. Held, that the issue thus raised involved a direct attack upon the validity of the plaintiff's designation.—Cook v. Raymond, 66 Conn. 285.

Remedy—Damages. The designation of a natural oyster bed is void, and cannot affect the right of the public to take oysters from such bed.

As the designation in the case at bar was made prior to the legislation of 1881 and 1885, which established State jurisdiction over natural oyster beds and defined their location and boundaries by authoritative records, parol evidence that the locus in quo was a natural oyster bed was the only evidence by which, in the nature of the case, such fact could be proved, and was admissable.

Held, also, that Chapter 110 of the Public Acts of 1893, which required the Shell-Fish Commissioners to indicate by buoys the natural oyster beds within the exclusive jurisdiction of the State, and provided that no buoys should be set so as to include within such natural beds any private or designated grounds, could not be construed as authorizing them to alter the location and boundaries of such beds, as already defined by Section 2328 of the General Statutes; and their failure, therefore, to include within the places as marked by them, the locus in quo, could no strengthen or validate the plaintiff's designation.

Held, also, that Section 2356 of the General Statutes, providing for the removal of stakes from an oyster bed which had been improperly staked out, was not designed as a method of trying questions of title, but merely as a means to effect the removal of the barriers deterring the public from the exercise of their rights upon ground belonging to them.

Held, also, that the clause of said section which authorized the court to allow any person a reasonable time in which to remove oysters planted by him in good faith, was not intended to restrict the rights of the public in the use of natural oyster beds, nor did it entitle the plaintiff to recover for the few oysters planted by him which were mingled with those lawfully taken by the defendant.—The case of State v. Nash, 62 Conn. 47, commented on and distinguished.—Cook v. Raymond, 66 Conn. 285.

General Statutes, Section 2348, provides for the setting out to individuals by a committee of the town, of oyster grounds within the navigable waters of any town; Section 2370 forbids the taking of any natural oyster bed for the purpose, and Section 2356 provides for proceedings for setting aside any designation where the ground shall be found to have been a natural oyster bed, the proceeding in this case to be by a petition of the town or any individual aggrieved to the Superior Court, the appointment of a committee to hear the case and report the facts, and an order for the removal of the stakes inclosing the ground if it shall be found to have been a natural oyster bed. Held, (1) that where a place had been designated to the defendant as an oyster ground, more than twenty years before, but on a petition now brought by the town it was found to have been a natural oyster bed for thirty years before such designation, the interrupted and undisturbed possession and use of the place by the defendant for planting oysters for the whole period, had not given him a title by adverse possession, the title being in the State against which there could be no title gained by such possession; the defendant's claim of title having, moreover, been only of such title as he acquired by the designation; (2) that the statute was not unconstitutional in making no provision for a trial of the question of title by a jury, the case being like that of a proceeding in equity to remove a cloud from a title, and failing within general equitable principles; (3) that the designation was not legalized by the Act of 1877 (Sess. Laws of 1877, Chap. 94, Section 2), which provides that "all designations of places for planting oysters within the navigable waters of any town, which have been heretofore made by authority of such town, are hereby validated and confirmed." The designation here was one which the town could not have authorized.—Clinton v. Bacon, 56 Conn. 517-519.

General Statutes, Section 2326, provides that the Superior Court, on the application of the Oyster-Ground Committee, shall appoint a committee to ascertain and locate all the natural oyster beds within the limits of the town, who shall make report to the court, which report, when accepted by the court and recorded, shall be a final and conclusive determination. A committee made its report and the court rejected it, and the appellants appealed. Held, that the rejection of the report was to be regarded as a final judgment, and that the court would entertain the appeal.

The court had power to set aside the report if the committee had exceeded its jurisdiction, or had conducted its proceedings in an unfair or improper manner. The power to accept the report by implication gives the power to reject it.

Any person whose claim to the ownership of oyster-grounds would be affected by the report of such a committee, would have the right to appear and remonstrate against the acceptance of the report.—In re-Application of Clinton Oyster-Ground Committee, 52 Conn. 6, 7.

It is not necessary that the committee should designate natural oyster, clam and mussel beds separately.—In re Application of Clinton Oyster-Ground Committee, 52 Conn. 9, 10.

Natural bed—Clams—Suit by town—Act of 1878. The statute (Gen. Stat., Section 2348, 2349) provides for the designation by a committee of any town, to any individual applying, of ground within the navigable waters of the town for the cultivation of oysters, with a provision that no natural oyster bed should be so designated; and a latter Section (Section 2356) passed in 1870, provides that the Superior Court, on application of the town or of any person interested, may order the removal of any stakes inclosing any ground in violation of the provisions of the statute. An act passed in 1878 (Gen. Stat., Section 2371) provides that no natural clam bed shall be thus designated and inclosed, but provides no remedy for a violation of the act. Held, that the remedy provided for a violation of the former act was not impliedly embraced in and applicable to the latter act.—Town of Clinton v. Bull, 55 Conn. 265, 266.

Natural Bed. The Act 1885 (now Gen. St., Section 2328 designates and describes the natural oyster beds within the jurisdiction of the State. Certain ground was afterwards legally designated to A., and had ever since been used for the cultivation of oysters. The defendant took oysters therefrom, in violation of General Statutes, Section 2358. Held, in a criminal prosecution therefor, that he could not show that the place was a natural oyster bed except by the designation and description of the same as such in the Act of 1885.—State v. Nash, 62 Conn. 48-51.

An Oyster-Ground Committee is not authorized under the Act of 1881 to designate, as natural oyster beds, oyster grounds that had previously been designated to individuals under the provisions of previous statutes.—In re Application of Clinton Oyster-Ground Committee, 52 Conn. 9, 10. (But see 57, Conn. 578).

Natural Oyster Beds. In October, 1875, a portion of the navigable waters of the Town of East Haven, suitable for planting and cultivating oysters, was, apparently by mistake, not included within the territory by statute assignable for such purpose. The Oyster-Ground Committee of such town, however, designated and alloted to one F. in the place within such non-assignable territory, which has since been held and devoted to the purpose of cultivating oysters. In 1877 an act was passed (Public Acts 1877, p. 200, Section 2) which validated and confirmed "all designations of places for planting and cultivating oysters within the navigable waters of any town, which have heretofore been made by authority of such town through its Selectmen or Oyster-Ground Committee." Held, (1) that the designation to F. was thereby validated and confirmed; (2) that the fact that the place so designated was natural clam and oyster ground did not invalidate the designation; (3) that a willful trespass on the ground so designated was in violation of, and punishable, under Section 2381 of the General Statutes.
—State v. Bassett, 64 Conn. 220.

If a committee acting under General Statutes, Section 2348, designated part of a natural oyster bed for a private oyster bed, such designation is invalid by reason of Section 2349, and does not affect the public rights of fishery therein.—Averill v. Hull, 37 Conn. 322.

BOARD

FOR THE TWO YEARS ENDING SEPTEMBER 30, 1905

THE BOARD OF CONTROL.

REPORT.

To His Excellency Henry Roberts, Governor of the State of Connecticut:

The Soldiers' Hospital Board of the State of Connecticut respectfully submit the following report for the two fiscal years ending Sept. 30th, 1905.

The Board has the charge and management of Fitch's Home for the Soldiers and Connecticut Hospital for Soldiers, Sailors, and Marines, located at Noroton Heights, (town of Darien) in Fairfield County, the care of veterans in the Connecticut Asylum for the Insane, the disbursement of the appropriation made by the State for the aid of veterans and their widows in their homes, the aid of the wives of veterans who are members of the Soldiers' Home, and the care and maintenance of invalid veterans of the Spanish-American war.

The Home at Noroton was established in 1887 and placed in charge of this Board by legislative authority. The Home then contained about seventy members, was deficient in its accommodations, and was without hospital accommodations, sewer facilities, or sufficient water supply. The State has remedied all these defects by liberal appropriations and the Home is now commodious, well furnished, supplied with all modern improvements, and ranks among the first of the many Soldiers' Homes in the country. The average number on the rolls for the past two years has been as follows:

Jan. 1st, 1904, 557.
July 1st, 1904, 544.
Jan. 1st, 1905, 568.
July 1st, 1905, 546.
Sept. 30th, 1905, 554.

This membership includes an average of twenty-nine members in the State Insane Asylum and an average of seven emergency cases in the State Hospitals. The cost of maintenance for the year Sept. 30th, 1904, to Sept. 30th, 1905, was $223.91 per capita. The whole expense of maintaining the Home and Hospital at Noroton and payment for support of veterans in the Hospitals and Asylum is shown by the report of the Treasurer which accompanies this report. The immediate management of the Home is in charge of Col. Jas. N. Coe, Supt. (late Capt. 2nd Conn. H. A.), and the management of the Hospital is under the direction of Maj. M. W. Robinson (formerly Surgeon 6th Conn. Vols.), assisted by a Staff composed of an Inspector, an Adjutant, two Assistant Surgeons, and a corps of clerks, trained nurses, and assistants. The discipline of the Home is excellent, and the members appear to appreciate the benefits conferred upon them by the State in their declining years. The health of its members has been excellent, the number removed by death in the current two years has been less than is usually expected among a body of men so advanced in age and enfeebled by disease as the veterans of the Civil War are at this remote period of forty-one years after the close of the war for the perpetuation of the Union.

A list of deaths is made a part of this report.

The religious needs of the members of the Home are provided for by clergymen of the following denominations: Episcopal, Congregational, Roman Catholic, and Methodist, who hold services in the Chapel on the grounds of the Home and attend the funerals of members who are buried in the Soldiers' plot in the Spring Grove Cemetery, Darien. The Young Men's Christian Association of Stamford also hold meetings and give entertainments at the Home, which add much to the comfort and pleasure of the members.

The daily bill of fare in the general dining room is appended to this report.

This bill of fare is varied in the season by the addition or substitution of other vegetables. The special diet in the Hospital is prescribed by the Surgeon in charge and varies with the needs of the patients.

On holidays a special bill of fare is provided of which the following is a sample:

CHRISTMAS DINNER.

The wisdom of the General Assembly of the State in providing for the aid of married veterans and their widows in their own homes has been amply justified by the results. This appropriation was made in 1893 and under the law eighty-six married veterans and ninety-six widows of veterans were receiving aid on Sept. 30th, 1905. The amount expended in each case has not been large but it has been sufficient to enable the veteran and his wife and the widow to retain their homes and to continue to live in the comunities where they have spent the most of their lives, to enjoy their church and social relations, and to feel that they have not lost their spirit of independence and self-respect.

The disbursements for this relief is widespread and the magnificent work it is doing for those who are entitled to its privileges is beyond the comprehension of any but those who are intimately engaged in the work of distributing the fund.

The General Assembly of 1905 recognized the importance of this work and the great good derived therefrom by a largely increased appropriation for the fiscal two years ending Sept. 30th, 1907, which will enable the Board to extend its field of operations and extend aid to the members who are deserving but whom the Board have not yet been able to assist.

The State has been extremely fortunate in having thorough and efficient officers in the immediate charge and management of the Home and Hospital. They have worked in harmony for the best interests of the State and the members of the institution, and have given complete satisfaction to the Board. We regret to say that Col. Coe, Supt., is suffering somewhat from ill-health caused by his fourteen years of faithful and untiring work in the duties of his position, but we hope to record his complete restoration to health in the immediate future.

The zealous and appreciative co-operation of the Dept. Commander of the G. A. R. and the G. A. R. Committee on Soldiers' Home has been of great help in the administration of the affairs of the Home, and the donations made by the Woman's Relief Corps, and Ladies of the G. A. R. of delicacies for the Hospital, and of the Posts and individual members of the G. A. R., and citizens, of reading matter, have been highly appreciated by the Board and the members of the Home.

The establishment and maintenance of the Soldiers' Home, the Soldiers' Aid law, and other laws enacted by the General Assembly of the State of Connecticut for the benefit of the veteran and his wife, and widow, shows that the State, and the good people of this State, are not unmindful of the service rendered and sacrifices made by the "Boys in Blue" in the preservation of our National integrity and unity, and that as the wants and needs of the veterans increase with advancing years, or they are made homeless or helpless by wounds or disease, or by disasters of civil life, they will be enabled to pass their declining years in comfort and honor as the wards of our grand and patriotic commonwealth.

Respectfully submitted,

GEORGE M. COLE,

Members of the Soldiers' Hospital Board.

Hartford, Conn., Dec. 30th, 1905.

Rules governing admission to Soldiers' Home and Hospitals:

All permits for admission to Hospital or Home shall be issued by the Chairman of the Executive Committee or by his authority, when the Board or Executive Committee are not in session.

Application for admission to the Home may be granted subject to examination and favorable report by the Surgeon of the Home, and the authority issuing such admission may furnish the applicant transportation to the Home, and if his application for admission is rejected upon the unfavorable report of the Surgeon, transportation shall be given him to return to the place from whence he came within this State.

All medical examinations for admission to the Home shall be made by the Surgeon of the Home.

No transportation shall be granted to applicants for admission to Hospital or Home under these rules, except by the Chairman of the Executive Committee and the Superintendent of the Home.

In emergency cases the medical examinations may be made by an Examining-Surgeon and a permit for temporary admission to Hospital given and the application immediately forwarded to the Chairman of the Executive Committee for his approval or disapproval.

Examining-Surgeons are notified that under these rules, only those cases which from accident or sudden and severe illness require immediate medical treatment will be considered "emergency cases." It is not expected that they will issue a permit for temporary admission to Hospital of any soldier or sailor who can be transported to the Home at Noroton for treatment.

Examining-Surgeons are requested to state in their report to the Chairman of the Executive Committee in each case how long the applicant will probably require treatment at the Hospital.

Examining-Surgeons and Hospitals will receive a list of those persons who have been dishonorably discharged from the Home, and such persons are not to be admitted to Hospitals temporarily, except in the most urgent case requiring immediate medical relief. Under the law governing the admission of soldiers and sailors to Hospitals such applicants may be admitted to the Hartford Hospital, General Hospital Society of Connecticut, at New Haven, Grace Hospital, of New Haven, Bridgeport Hospital, Danbury Hospital and any other incorporated hospital in the State.

In cases of insane persons entitled to the benefit of the Act, Examining-Surgeons may make the medical examination and forward the application for admission to Fitch's Home for the Soldiers to the Chairman of the Executive Committee of the Soldiers' Hospital Board, but are not authorized to issue permits for temporary admission to the Hospital for the Insane at Middletown.

In every case the certificate of identification upon the application blank must be filled out by the proper authority.

Every soldier or sailor receiving a permit for admission, must deliver his discharge and pension certificate to the Superintendent of the Home for safe keeping.

NO PERSON WILL be admitted to the Home or to a Hospital unless application has been made to the proper authority and a permit issued.

Personal application to the Chairman of the Executive Committee is unnecessary and should not be made, as every applicant must be identified and it is found from experience that when applicants appear in person they usually cannot be identified, and much hardship results therefrom. The application should be filled out at the place of the applicant's residence and his identification secured there.

Circular.

The Board of Managers of the National Home have issued the following rules relative to pensions, as a condition of the State receiving the appropriation of one hundred dollars per year per capita for soldiers in the Soldiers' Home.

"1. Any member who is receiving a pension from the Government, and who has a child, wife or parent living, shall be entitled by filing with the treasurer, or other designated officer of the Home in whose custody pension money of its members may be placed, written directions to that effect, to have his pension or any part of it, paid to such child, wife or parent.

2. The pensions of all who now are or shall hereafter become members of the Home shall be turned over by the pensioners to the treasurer, or officer designated to act in such capacity under such rules as may be adopted by the Home. This pension money shall not become a part of the funds of the Home but shall be held in trust for the pensioners entitled thereto, except such as shall be assigned as aforesaid. The pension money so held in trust for any pensioner and not sooner paid to him, shall be paid to him upon his discharge from the Home.

3. Under Rules to be established by the Home, there shall be paid over to any member, from time to time such part of his pension money as may be deemed best for his interest and consistent with the discipline and good order of the Home. But such pensioner shall not be entitled to demand or have the same so long as he remains a member of the Home.

4. In case of the death of a pensioner any pension money due him, and remaining in the custody of the Home, shall be paid to his legal heirs, if demand is made within three years; otherwise the same shall escheat to the Home.

5. No portion of the pension money held in trust for a pensioner shall be taken for the use of the Home, in payment of any charge against the pensioner, or on account of a fine or penalty, or for any purpose whatever.

The sale of intoxicating liquors in any form within the precincts of a State Home shall be considered as precluding the apportionment thereto of any part of the aid appropriated under the proviso of the act above cited."

It is necessary in order to comply with these rules; that every pensioner who is a member of this Home, shall turn over his pension check when received, to the Superintendent of the Home, who will enter the same on his record and collect the check, after which the money will be disposed of in accordance with the law and rules.

This rule of the National Board is in accordance with the agreement contained in the application for membership in this Home, in which each member agreed, as follows:

"And I agree to turn over my pension when received to the Superintendent to be disposed of in accordance with the rules and orders of the Soldiers' Hospital Board."

Neglect or refusal to deliver the pension check to the Superintendent, who is authorized to receive the same in behalf of the Board, will be a violation of the rules of the National Board and of the State Board and of the above agreement and will expose the state to danger of loss of the United States appropriation to its great damage. Pensioners are hereby informed that they must indorse and deliver their pension checks to the Superintendent of the Home as soon as they receive the same, and that failure to do so will be a violation of the rules which will be reported to the Executive Committee for their action. The pensioners will notice that the disposition of the pension money under the new rules of the National Board does not differ from that pursued in the past.

The Executive Committee who are charged with the protection of the interests of the State as well as of the members of the Home expect a prompt and cheerful compliance with the foregoing rules.

THE EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE OF THE SOLDIERS' HOME.

PROVISIONS OF THE LAW OF THE STATE OF CONNECTICUT.

Providing for the Support of Disabled Soldiers, Sailors and Marines of the Civil War, and their Wives and Widows, passed 1903 and amended 1905.

The Soldiers' Hospital Board is authorized to expend the State appropriation for the purpose of aiding in the support of honorably discharged soldiers, sailors and marines of the Civil War, residents of this State, who are eligible to admission to Fitch's Home for the Soldiers, and who are married and are living with their wives, and who, by reason of age, or disability not the result of bad habits, are unable to support themselves and their wives and are without adequate means of support for themselves and their wives, and for the support of the widows of honorably discharged soldiers, sailors and marines of the Civil War, married prior to June 27, 1890, who for the same reasons are unable to support themselves and are without adequate means of support; provided, that the husbands of such widows were at the time of their decease residents of this State and eligible for admission to Fitch's Home for the Soldiers, and such widows were then residents of this State and living with their husbands, or absent by consent, or for legal cause, and shall continue to live in this state while receiving such aid.

Said Board shall have power to expend said appropriation in such cases as it may deem necessary and proper, in aiding in the support of said soldiers, sailors and marines and their wives, and said widows, all of whom said Board shall deem to be of good character and habits, upon proof satisfactory to said Board that such soldiers, sailors or marines, by reason of age or disability not the result of bad habits, are unable to support themselves and their wives, and are without adequate means of support for themselves and their wives, and that said widows for the same reasons are unable to support themselves and are without adequate means of support. Provided, that the soldier, sailor or marine applying for such aid shall have been married prior to June 27th, 1890, and has lived continuously with such wife since marriage and up to the date of the application for aid, absence by reason of illness, occupation, or residence in a soldiers' home excepted, and shall continue to live with and support such wife while such aid is being furnished; and shall have the sole power to determine the time for which such aid shall be extended and the amount and character thereof, which amount shall not in any case exceed six dollars per week in value.

Said Board may make rules and regulations for the transaction of its business under this act and the disbursement of its funds; may prescribe the form of application for aid; may require the application to be sworn to by the applicant and the statements of witnesses to be verified under oath; and may appoint such committees, officers and agents as it may deem necessary to properly transact its business under this act, and define their power, and duties, and fix and pay their compensation.

Bridgeport, Conn., Dec. 9, 1905.

To the Soldiers' Hospital Board:—

The undersigned Chairman of the Executive Committee of said Board makes the following report for the two years ending Sept. 30th, 1905.

The affairs at the Home have progressed favorably and additions have been made for the comfort and convenience of its members, consisting of a two-story addition to the Hospital, giving some isolated rooms which were much needed for the proper care of its inmates. The cost of this improvement and furnishing was $12,456.93, which was paid from a special appropriation made by the General Assembly of 1903.

A house and lot south of the Hospital was purchased at a cost of $3,460.00 and paid for from a special appropriation made by the General Assembly of 1905. This house is occupied by the surgeon and his family and affords a much needed addition to the Home. A barn on the same lot has been converted into a dormitory, giving more room in the hospital for other purposes.

Brick conduits have been constructed for the main steam pipes leading from the boiler house to the Hospital and the dormitories, and it is expected that the use of the same will not only result in a better steam supply in the buildings, but also reduce the amount of fuel consumed.

The State appropriation for this improvement was $4,000.00, of which $3,999.61 was paid out.

For some years the question of a water supply has engaged the attention of the Board, and repeated promises had been made by parties to furnish a gravity supply, but without fulfillment, and the Board in 1905 commenced operations to secure an independent and permanent supply from wells on the property of the State. Two wells were driven and an ample supply of good water has been obtained, and to utilize the same properly a storage reservoir has been constructed and a water tower and tank erected which together store sufficient water to guard against accidents to machinery and at the same time afford ample protection against fire.

The Home has been occupied to almost its full capacity during the summer months, while in the winter the accommodations have been inadequate to meet the demands.

The members of the Home are well cared for in every particular, and but few of them find any cause for complaint. Where large bodies of men are gathered together there will always be some to find fault, but causes for complaint are, I believe, reduced to the minimum in this Home.

During the two fiscal years ending Sept. 30, 1905, the Soldiers' Hospital Board held thirteen meetings and the Executive Committee held fifty meetings. These meetings took one day each except when the Board and Executive Committee held meetings the same day, which occurred about five times. The Chairman of the Committee spent eight days away from his office on business of the Board in addition to the meetings above referred to. There were twenty-four hundred and twenty letters received by the Chairman on Soldiers' Hospital Board business proper, and he sent out from his office two thousand and twenty-five letters on the same business. Nearly five hundred applications for admission and readmission to the Home were received by him.

In the matter of the Soldiers' Aid branch of the work, the Chairman received in the two fiscal years three thousand one hundred and forty-five letters and sent out three thousand five hundred and fifty-seven letters. Three hundred and ninety-two applications were made for Soldiers' Aid.

It has necessarily taken much time to look after the business coming into this office, and it is estimated that the personal attention of the Chairman has been required for at least one hour per day in the office for the two years embraced in this report.

The members of the Board and the Executive Committee have co-operated in every way to lighten the duties of the office, while the officers of the Home have been careful, capable, and conscientious in the discharge of their duties, thus rendering what would otherwise be a burden, a pleasure.

Respectfully submitted,

ALFRED B. BEERS,
Chairman Executive Committee.
